Sigler Says Chambers Getting Distorted View

ut the most critical needs, he d, are at the Men's ormatory.

Men are sent to prison as ishment, not for punishment, ler said. "And I consider ng locked up a terrific ishment," he noted.

forts here to talking only with those men who have behavior problems and, with few exceptions, who have continued to be disciplinary problems within the institution.

"If he is really interested, I would suggest he talk with all the people to get a picture of the institution that anyone should have before they attempt to do anything.'

Accomplishments

In 12 years at the prison (he leaves this month to accept appointment to the Federal Board of Parole effective Aug. 1), Sigler said, he has accomplished "at least part of everything I came here to do" except the construction of new penal facilities.

"The greatest need is a new reformatory," he said. "It is falling down and the fire marshal says it's a firetrap.

"There may be a poorer physical plant in America, but I don't know where it would be — and I have visited most of the states."

'Yesterday'

When should a new facility be constructed? "Yesterday," the warden replied

"We are housing people under conditions in which some people wouldn't place their prize animals."

As for the penitentiary, "this place should continue to be used for awhile — as long as it's safe — for the type of person who needs close confinement," Sigler said.

Minimum security prisoners should be transferred from the site to a new facility, "perhaps in the vicinity of the reformatory," he suggested, leaving the penitentiary to serve as a maximum security prison only.

Changes Needed

It should, however, be renovated and remodeled and provided with more space, both for the yard and for program purposes, the warden said.

The 95-year-old west cellblock needs "a completely new plumbing system" and both cellhouses should be serviced with hot water, he said.

Program changes are also needed, Sigler said.

"There is much room for improvement.

Inadequate

"The reformatory has completely inadequate facilities for training and programming. The intensive programming should be with that group . . . they are, for the most part, the youngest and the least sophisticated."

Sigler doubts that vocational technical training is the best program for penitentiary inmates.

"These guys have set a pattern of anti-social behavior which is often so deeply ingrained that vocational training will not put them safely back on the streets.

"They need resocialization and development of good work habits. Too many of our men can't relate well to people with a normal education. They need training in academic education."

'One Of The Best'

The penitentiary now has "one of the best prison schools in the country," Sigler said, "but it needs to be expanded."

Development of community treatment centers, "where men, near the end of their sentence, could gradually be released back into the community under supervision," would be more important than a vocational technical school, the warden said.

"This is what needs to be emphasized," he said.

In planning construction of new facilities, Sigler said, he hopes public officials will look at other institutions and "learn from their mistakes," then hire imaginative consultants and architects "who know our program and our philosophy.

'Should Be Best'

"Every new prison built should be the best one," the warden noted.

"But I don't want anyone to believe that we don't still need a maximum security facility.

"There are people here who do not want to conform and who are dangerous.

BRITISH ENTRY URGED

Campaign Is Started

. . . BY WHITE PAPER

©The New York Times

By ANTHONY LEWIS

London — The Conservative government told Parliament and the people Wednesday that Britain's last best hope for prosperity and security lies in joining European Economic Community.

A white paper formally urged Parliament to ratify the terms just negotiated with the EEC, but the document really signaled the start of a great campaign to persuade a reluctant public opinion of the advantages of entry.

"Our country will be more secure," the white paper said, "our ability to maintain peace and promote development in the world greater, our economy stronger and our industries and people more prosperous if we join."

Ringing Language

The white paper, 20,000 words long, had detailed sections on the precise results of the negotiations. But there was also much language more ringing than the usual civil service prose. It was in effect a campaign document.

"The choice for Britain is clear," it said.

"Either we choose to enter the community and join in building a strong Europe on the foundations which the six (EEC members) have laid, or we choose to stand aside from this great enterprise and seek to maintain our interests from the narrow — and narrowing base — we have known in recent years."

Dramatic Warning

There was a dramatic warning of the damage to Britain if she now rejected a goal sought by successive Conservative and Labor governments since 1961.

"No one can predict the consequences of such a reversal," the white paper said. "They would touch all aspects of our national life and affect our future as much as, if not more than, acceptance of the opportunities now offered us.

"In a single generation we should have renounced an imperial past and rejected a European future. Our friends everywhere would be dismayed. They would rightly be as uncertain as ourselves about our future role and place in the world."

Prime Minister Edward Heath rose briefly in the House of Commons to state the white paper's conclusions. Harold Wilson, leader of the Labor opposition, responded with the noncommittal comment that Britain now could begin her "great debate."

Wilson Switch Predicted

Wilson's views are a subject of particular interest now. He led his Labor government to apply for entry into the Common Market in 1967, but lately he has been increasingly critical. It is now all but certain that he will say no.

The white paper in fact fired some warning shots across Wilson's bow.

It quoted two of the many pro-European statements he made while in office, thus telling him what he already knows — that he will be condemned as a hypocrite if he now comes out against entry.

Conference Scheduled

The Labor Party is going to hold a special one-day conference on the market issue a week from Saturday. Wilson would like to avoid a definite vote, but it looks now as if left-wing unions will push through a strong resolution against British entry.

The House of Commons vote for or against the whole enterprise is due at the end of October, after a long debate. Right now most observers believe the odds strongly favor ratification.

Heath expects to have enough votes on his own side to win, reducing the diehard Conservative opponents to a handful. He said again Wednesday that Conservatives would be under party orders to vote for entry.

Educational Changes Evident At 3rd Instructional Festival

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

Education in the 1970's is a pretty complicated game. It's still all about teachers who are supposed to teach and students who are supposed to learn, but how the teaching and learning happens is radically changing.

Just how much education is changing is dramatically illustrated by the exhibits on display at the Third Annual Instructional Development Festival at the Nebraska Union.

Visitors quickly realize that education is many things — information, entertainment, moral training, guidance counseling, and not least of all, big business.

Some Unchanged

Some things haven't changed. Traditional educators might find some solace in the festival's large display of Crayolas and tempera paints — still big sellers in the educational world.

But another big seller stands right across the aisle — a lectern that relieves the teacher of almost all his traditional teaching responsibilities.

The lectern, a complicated network of equipment programmed for use by students, is already in use at Hastings College, the University of Nebraska, and Millard High School. Price tag: anywhere from $8.000 to $10,000.

For Multiplication

One of the best buys at the festival is said to be the Education Computer Training System, economically priced at $5,990. The computer is used not only for training students in computer operations, but also for teaching elementary students their multiplication tables.

Perhaps the most persistent reminder that the classroom of today is not what it was twenty, ten or even five years ago is the overhead projector, which abound today like chalk and erasers did yesterday. The standard one sells for around $150, according to festival exhibitors.

When viewing the modern equipment and audio-visual teaching innovations, it's easy to forget the inspiration for these changes — today's students, people quite different from those who filled America's classrooms a few years ago.

Anti-Drug Film

A film entitled "1:59 — Last Minute to Choose," on sale for $375, is a good example of the current anti-drug literature which is aimed not at faceless students in regimented desks, but high schoolers as their teachers know them — kids who've been around.

The film, produced in the San Francisco County Hospital and Mendocino, Calif., State Hospital, shows the viewer some of the less pleasant aspects of drug use, including a lengthy segment of a barbituate user's stomach being pumped.

Other educational products offered for health education are "trip or trap" bingo and playing cards, which acquaint players with drug names, "ban the butt" paperweights and a "VD Dial" "that tells what every person should know about venereal disease."

Feature Presentation

A feature presentation of the festival, which continues through Thursday, is a 38-minute multi-screen look at instructional methods — past, present and future.

The presentation, produced and shown by Arthur M. Suchesk of the Southern California Regional Occupational Center, defines the role of instructional technologists and traces the history of instructional innovations.

ecrecy Veils U.S. Aid To Laos Attack

(c) Washington Star

ientiane, Laos — The United tes has launched a new ret operation against the in of Jars, a Communist-held a in northern Laos, acding to well-informed rces. They say that comndo raiders, some led by erican military men working the Central Intelligence ency, have penetrated as far Lima 22, an airstrip in the t central plain.

U.S. officials refuse to discuss operation, making it difficult assess the operation's exact gnitude or objectives.

U.S. aircraft are landing on plain. An Air America C-123 nsport was stranded with its erican crew on the plain for night, according to well-informed sources.

One American source said n. Vang Pao was rengthening and improving defensive position." Sources d Vang Pao took Ban Na, a hill overlooking the plain t week. However, this claim of strengthening defenses does not seem to square with U.S. presence on the plain or the excessive secrecy cloaking the operation on the part of the U.S. and Lao officials.

Vang Pao leads an army of his fellow Meo tribesmen, paid and supplied by the United States.

Some military sources have suggested that the Plain of Jars push is to relieve the pressure on the Meo base of Bouam Long, north of the plain.

When correspondents tried to find out what the operation was about, Gen. Thongphan Knoksy, the government spokesman, dodged into the corridors of the Lao headquarters.

There is little doubt that the operation is considerable in size.

U.S. air power is again extremely active over the plain, where some 5,000 civilians are still living. American embassy officials are seemingly portraying the operation as Vang Pao's idea. "Vang Pao is very much his own man," three American officials said separately.

? Senators Propose Rural Credit Banking

Washington (UPI) — Sens. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., Wednesday induced a bill to ease urban pressures halting the flow of Americans from al areas to cities.

The measure would provide billions dollars in loans to finance jobs and ilities in rural communities where out 40% of the U.S. population now es.

The basic purpose of the bill, the senators said, was to halt and haps reverse the flow of population the cities by opening new jobs and proving living conditions in rural gions.

Humphrey 'Encouraged'

Talmadge, chairman of the Senate riculture Committee, said hearings the bill would start soon. Humphrey, former vice president, said he was ery encouraged" about prospects for ssing the measure before the end the year.

The legislation would create a bank system, initially financed by $2 lion in federal funds over a 10-year riod, to supply money for the private ney market for loans to rural areas pay for community improvements.

This would be done by providing edit for rural nonfarm borrowers — th businessmen and local vernments — through new regional ral development credit banks which would, in turn, work through local private banks and agencies set up by state and local governments.

The federal "seed" money would be used as the basis for borrowing additional capital from private sources. Thus, with a first-year federal investment of $200 million, the new system might be able to lend its borrowers as much as $2 or $3 billion, eventually building up to a $10-$20 billion-a-year operation.

Farm Credit Pattern

Additionally, Agriculture Department programs would be reorganized with an assistant secretary in charge of rural credit. He would oversee two new agencies created out of the department's Farmers Home Administration — one agency to make farm loans and the other to make loans for rural community and economic development.

Also, there would be direct federal aid available in the form of interest supplements through a rural development investment administration to provide incentives for industry to locate in rural areas.

The legislation, backed by eight of the Agriculture Committee's 14 members, would apply to all parts of the country outside cities of 35,000 population or more, thus affecting about 40% of the entire population.

Sokol Hall Burns In Omaha

Omaha (UP) — The first four-alarm fire in the history of Omaha completely destroyed a two-story building housing the Old Catholic Sokol Hall Wednesday night.

The Skomal Hardware Store next to the hall at 1234 S. 13th St. was also on fire, and the blaze was threatening some apartments behind the building.

At least 20 fire units were still battling the blaze late Wednesday.

The first alarm was turned in at 8:30. The second and third alarms followed at 15 minute intervals, and the fourth alarm was called around 9:30 p.m.

Sokol Hall is on the second floor of the building. Offices on the main floor were also destroyed.

A crowd of several thousand persons were watching the blaze, and there were reports that smoke could be seen from Council Bluffs, Iowa, across the Missouri River.

About an hour after the fire began, the roof of the building collapsed in a sheet of flames, with a huge ball of smoke and fire roaring out the top.

Record Numbers Of Soviet Jews Leave For Israel

Moscow (UPI) — The flow of Jews from the Soviet Union to Israel reached the highest rate ever in June when more than 1,300 persons received exit visas, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

The sources said they could not immediately disclose the exact number but said it will be higher than the 1,300 figure for April "and it may be considerably higher than that."

Until now, the April emigration had been the highest for any month since the state of Israel was established in 1948.

Disaster Funds Okayed For Northeast Nebraska

San Clemente, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon Wednesday declared Nebraska a major disaster area, clearing the way for a grant of federal funds for relief to several counties in the northeastern part of the state struck by severe thunderstorms and tornadoes last month.

Preliminary estimates by the Office of Emergency Preparedness indicate that more than $700,000 will be alocated in federal money to the state to be used for debris clearance and repairs of public facilities, including roads and bridges.

This is the second time the state has been declared a major disaster area this year. The President last February granted relief assistance to Nebraska following major flooding.

The Nebraska Civil Defense office said the President acted at the request of Gov. J. J. Exon.

The nine northeastern counties declared a disaster area are Wayne, Cedar, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston, Dakota and Dixon.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness regional staff in Denver, under regional director Donald Eddy, is coordinating the federal response and administering the President's funds allocated for disaster relief, the State Civil Defense office said.

Sigler Says Chambers Getting Distorted View

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of four articles by a Star staff writer who accompanied State Sen. Ernest Chambers on a recent visit to the State Penitentiary.)

By DON WALTON

Warden Maurice Sigler says State Sen. Ernest Chambers has a distorted view of the penitentiary because he only talks with "a hard core" of prisoners who refuse to adjust to the institution.

Changes are needed, Sigler agrees.

But the most critical needs, he said, are at the Men's Reformatory.

Men are sent to prison as punishment, not for punishment, Sigler said. "And I consider being locked up a terrific punishment," he noted.

But as for the individual grievances and complaints voiced by the seven inmates with whom Chambers talked last week, Sigler said:

"I will not dignify anything they said with a response. Their records at this institution, the things they've done and continue to do, speak for themselves.

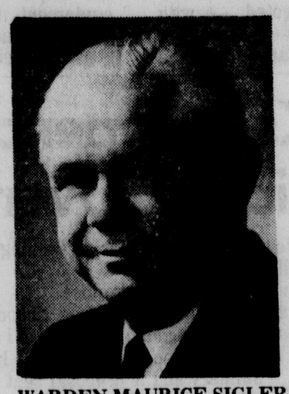
"With the exception of perhaps two, most of these men have been in isolation a lot of time since they've been here and they will enjoy the same status under the new warden.

'Small Hard Core'

"In every prison, there is a real small hard core of men who for one reason or another cannot adjust to institutional living and it is necessary that they be kept in maximum confinement."

Chambers, the warden said, is "a man who has an opportunity to do a real service for the state.

"But he has confined his efforts here to talking only with those men who have behavior problems and, with few exceptions, who have continued to be disciplinary problems within the institution.



WARDEN MAURICE SIGLER

"If he is really interested, I would suggest he talk with all the people to get a picture of the institution that anyone should have before they attempt to do anything."

Inadequate

"The reformatory has completely inadequate facilities for training and programming. The intensive programming should be with that group . . . they are, for the most part, the youngest and the least sophisticated."

Sigler doubts that vocational technical training is the best program for penitentiary inmates.

Campaign Is Started

. . . BY WHITE PAPER

©The New York Times

By ANTHONY LEWIS

London — The Conservative government told Parliament and the people Wednesday that Britain's last best hope for prosperity and security lies in joining European Economic Community.

A white paper formally urged Parliament to ratify the terms just negotiated with the EEC, but the document really signaled the start of a great campaign to persuade a reluctant public opinion of the advantages of entry.

"Our country will be more secure," the white paper said, "our ability to maintain peace and promote development in the world greater, our economy stronger and our industries and people more prosperous if we join."

Ringing Language

The white paper, 20,000 words long, had detailed sections on the precise results of the negotiations. But there was also much language more ringing than the usual civil service prose. It was in effect a campaign document.

"The choice for Britain is clear," it said.

"Either we choose to enter the community and join in building a strong Europe on the foundations which the six (EEC members) have laid, or we choose to stand aside from this great enterprise and seek to maintain our interests from the narrow — and narrowing base — we have known in recent years."

Dramatic Warning

There was a dramatic warning of the damage to Britain if she now rejected a goal sought by successive Conservative and Labor governments since 1961.

"No one can predict the consequences of such a reversal," the white paper said. "They would touch all aspects of our national life and affect our future as much as, if not more than, acceptance of the opportunities now offered us.

"In a single generation we should have renounced an imperial past and rejected a European future. Our friends everywhere would be dismayed. They would rightly be as uncertain as ourselves about our future role and place in the world."

Wilson's views are a subject of particular interest now. He led his Labor government to apply for entry into the Common Market in 1967, but lately he has been increasingly critical. It is now all but certain that he will say no.

The House of Commons vote for or against the whole enterprise is due at the end of October, after a long debate. Right now most observers believe the odds strongly favor ratification.

Heath expects to have enough votes on his own side to win, reducing the diehard Conservative opponents to a handful. He said again Wednesday that Conservatives would be under party orders to vote for entry.

Secrecy Veils U.S. Aid To Laos Attack

Vientiane, Laos — The United States has launched a new secret operation against the Plain of Jars, a Communist-held area in northern Laos, according to well-informed sources. They say that commando raiders, some led by American military men working for the Central Intelligence Agency, have penetrated as far as Lima 22, an airstrip in the east central plain.

U.S. officials refuse to discuss the operation, making it difficult to assess the operation's exact magnitude or objectives.

2 Senators Propose Rural Credit Banking

Washington (UPI) — Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., Wednesday introduced a bill to ease urban pressures by halting the flow of Americans from rural areas to cities.

The measure would provide billions of dollars in loans to finance jobs and facilities in rural communities where about 40% of the U.S. population now lives.

The basic purpose of the bill, the two senators said, was to halt and perhaps reverse the flow of population to the cities by opening new jobs and improving living conditions in rural regions.

Humphrey 'Encouraged'

Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said hearings on the bill would start soon. Humphrey, the former vice president, said he was "very encouraged" about prospects for passing the measure before the end of the year.

The legislation would create a banking system, initially financed by $2 billion in federal funds over a 10-year period, to supply money for the private money market for loans to rural areas to pay for community improvements.

This would be done by providing credit for rural nonfarm borrowers — both businessmen and local governments — through new regional rural development credit banks which would, in turn, work through local private banks and agencies set up by state and local governments.

The federal "seed" money would be used as the basis for borrowing additional capital from private sources. Thus, with a first-year federal investment of $200 million, the new system might be able to lend its borrowers as much as $2 or $3 billion, eventually building up to a $10-$20 billion-a-year operation.

Sokol Hall Burns In Omaha

Omaha (UP) — The first four-alarm fire in the history of Omaha completely destroyed a two-story building housing the Old Catholic Sokol Hall Wednesday night.

The Skomal Hardware Store next to the hall at 1234 S. 13th St. was also on fire, and the blaze was threatening some apartments behind the building.

At least 20 fire units were still battling the blaze late Wednesday.

The first alarm was turned in at 8:30. The second and third alarms followed at 15 minute intervals, and the fourth alarm was called around 9:30 p.m.

Sokol Hall is on the second floor of the building. Offices on the main floor were also destroyed.

A crowd of several thousand persons were watching the blaze, and there were reports that smoke could be seen from Council Bluffs, Iowa, across the Missouri River.

About an hour after the fire began, the roof of the building collapsed in a sheet of flames, with a huge ball of smoke and fire roaring out the top.

Record Numbers Of Soviet Jews Leave For Israel

Moscow (UPI) — The flow of Jews from the Soviet Union to Israel reached the highest rate ever in June when more than 1,300 persons received exit visas, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

The sources said they could not immediately disclose the exact number but said it will be higher than the 1,300 figure for April "and it may be considerably higher than that."

Until now, the April emigration had been the highest for any month since the state of Israel was established in 1948.

Disaster Funds Okayed For Northeast Nebraska

San Clemente, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon Wednesday declared Nebraska a major disaster area, clearing the way for a grant of federal funds for relief to several counties in the northeastern part of the state struck by severe thunderstorms and tornadoes last month.

Preliminary estimates by the Office of Emergency Preparedness indicate that more than $700,000 will be alocated in federal money to the state to be used for debris clearance and repairs of public facilities, including roads and bridges.

This is the second time the state has been declared a major disaster area this year. The President last February granted relief assistance to Nebraska following major flooding.

The Nebraska Civil Defense office said the President acted at the request of Gov. J. J. Exon.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness regional staff in Denver, under regional director Donald Eddy, is coordinating the federal response and administering the President's funds allocated for disaster relief, the State Civil Defense office said.

Little Fraud Found

Washington (UPI) — Less than 1% of the nation's welfare clients last year — 33,900 cases — were suspected of cheating the states, and less than 10% of those were prosecuted for fraud, the government reported.

Poet Advocates Discussion

List Is Ordered

World News

Miami (AP) — Four Cuban fishermen released from a U.S. prison arrived home to a heroes' welcome Wednesday while 13 Americans held by the Fidel Castro regime steamed away from the Communist island aboard a private yacht and tugboat.

But the fate of four California men aboard the yacht White Cloud remained uncertain. A State Department spokesman in Miami said they had not left Cuba.

The spokesman said five other Californians aboard the yacht Saturna and eight Floridian crewmen of the tugboat Battler had left the island.

He said the Battler was en route to San Juan, P.R., its original destination before it became disabled and pulled into a Cuban port for assistance last month. The Saturna was believed headed toward Miami, he said.

Another American, Fritz Sprandel, 26, of Allentown, Pa., was released Tuesday and arrived in Miami aboard a Cuban refugee airlift plane.

The four fishermen were taken from the federal prison at Eglin Air Force Base Tuesday and were placed aboard a Cuban fishing vessel in the Dry Tortugas, 50 miles from Key West in the Florida Straits. They were released in the same general area where they were arrested by the Coast Guard May 26 on charges of poaching in U.S. waters.

Payment Is Condition

Soon after the release of the Cubans, Havana radio announced the Americans held in in Cuba would receive "all aid in leaving the country once the services and costs they incurred were paid."

A State Department spokesman in Washington, D.C., said Wednesday the government was not paying the costs and would not reimburse the Americans.

Although he said he had no timetable, the spokesman said he was confident the Americans would be released later in the day, in the boats that took them to Cuba.

The 17 arrived in Cuba in three different boats — the yachts Saturna and White Cloud and a Florida tugboat, The Battler. Sprandel had washed ashore in Cuba in a canoe he was sailing alone.

Sprandel and the four persons aboard the White Cloud were tried and convicted of entering Cuban waters illegally. Their trials came after the Cuban freshmen had been convicted

The five Americans orignally were fined $20,000 each, but Havana radio announced Tuesday night the amount had been reduced to $2,000 apiece.

The Cuban fishermen were fined $10,000 each and were serving six-month sentences when they were released abruptly with no announcement from the government. After their release, Havana radio announced their fines had undergone reductions similar to the Americans'.

In Washington, the State Department said the release of the Cubans and the Havana radio announcement — on the same day — that the Americans would be released after being held for weeks was only a coincidence.

Was Called A 'Deal'

Earlier in the day another State Department spokesman referred to the exchange as a "deal" and said the premature publicity of the exchange "could queer the deal." He said the State Department was "extremely anxious."

Sprandel held a news conference in Miami Wednesday and told newsmen he had been informed last Saturday his fine had been reduced to $2,000. He said he was frightened the entire time he was in Cuba.

The 26-year-old paddler was trying to canoe from Key West to California when he was swept into Cuban waters. He said a Cuban gunboat fired a machine-gun burst over his head, that he was held under guard the entire time he was in Cuba and was confined with seven boat and plane hijackers.

Pictures

Sprandel said his captors told him he might face a firing squad and showed him pictures of prisoners who had been executed.

The four California men aboard the yacht White Cloud who were fined along with Sprandel were identified as Bernard Bender; his sons, Laurence and Michael, and Thomas Joseph McGuire.

Senate OKs Independent Agency To Seek Victory Over Cancer

Washington (AP) — The Senate passed 79 to 1 Wednesday a bill to create a new independent agency charged with making a final breakthrough in the war on cancer.

The measure was sent to the House where similar legislation has been introduced but is still in the Commeree Committee.

The overwhelming Senate vote came despite the fears voiced by some members that it is a mistake to make the new Conquest of Cancer Agency independent of the present National Institutes of Health.

Ted, Javits in Favor

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., two of the principal sponsors of the bill, insisted that a bold new program is needed to try to find the causes of and cures for the various types of cancer.

Kennedy, chairman of the Senate health subcommittee, said that not only the greater stature provided the cancer research agency by the bill but also greatly increased financing are needed in the fight on the disease.

The United States spent $125 for every American on the war in Vietnam in 1969 but only 89 cents per person on cancer research, he said. Yet, he said cancer deaths in 1970 were eight times the number of lives lost in the last six years of fighting in the war.

Compromise

The bill presented by Kennedy represented a compromise between one he introduced last January and a proposal sent up by President Nixon in May.

The new agency would absorb and continue the work of the 34-year-old Cancer Institute of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md.

Under its new independent status, the agency would report directly to the President both as to its budget and its scientific program.

Its director would be named by the President and confirmed by the Senate, giving him higher status than the present head of the Cancer Institute.

Some senators, however, said they had misgivings about the measure. They said they feared it might lead to the dismantling of NIH, called by some the greatest biochemical research structure in the world.

Effectiveness

Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said they believed cancer research could be carried on most effectively if it were carried on within the administrative framework of NIH and all its supporting facilities.

"We believe that totally independent status for any institute will tend to weaken NIH, and to hinder the success of an attack on cancer or any other diseases, rather than strengthen it," they declared.

Senate Asked To Control CIA Secrecy

Washington (UPI) — Separate bills were introduced in the Senate Wednesday to give Congress more control over the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., proposed an amendment to the 1947 act that created the CIA to require that Congressional committees be given access to CIA reports.

The law does not forbid Congressional access to such documents, but makes no specific provision for it.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., proposed legislation to require that all CIA expenditures and appropriations be shown in the federal budget. The expenditures are now secret — disguised in appropriations of various other agencies.

Soviets Simulate Attack On NATO

Norfolk, Va. (AP) — The Soviet Union has just completed naval operations in which it simulated destruction of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization task force near the Arctic Circle and elimination of NATO bases in Norway, the Norfolk Ledger-Star said Wednesday.

The newspaper, quoting "reliable Navy sources," said the operation in the Norwegian Sea and the North Atlantic was "a very sophisticated medium scale exercise that utilized the Soviet Union's most modern technical equipment.'

Naval observers were impressed with the Soviet exercise, the paper said, because it was accomplished "without detriment to current widespread Soviet naval operations in the Atlantic and elsewhere.'

Police, Youths Clash Again

Omaha (AP) — Police and young people clashed for a second night in Omaha Wednesday, with more arrests and injuries to policemen, newsmen and demonstrators.

Official at an Omaha hospital said late Wednesday night two police patrolmen and a cameraman for WOW-TV in Omaha were treated and released for contusions and lacerations. Injuries also were reported to demonstrators at the park. However, the number and extent of the injuries was not known.

Two police cruisers were reported damaged in the University of Nebraska-Omaha parking lot near the park and police said four arrests were made in connection with the incident.

Police and young demonstrators clashed in Elmwood Park shortly after 10:30 p.m. as police used nightsticks to clear an estimated 300 persons from the area located just across Dodge St. from Memorial Park.

Young persons in the crowd, protesting an 8:00 p.m. curfew set by the Omaha City Council for Memorial Park, taunted police as they patroled the area and threw fireworks into the street.

Most of the crowd scattered in Elmwood Park when police moved into their ranks using their nightsticks to herd them from the park.

Young people quickly dispersed into neighboring areas and streets bordering the park. Much of the crowd then left the area and police sealed off traffic along Dodge Street in the park area.

After Tuesday night's violence, Mayor Eugene Leahy issued a statement saying "I will not tolerate violence and anarchy."

Leahy, who was not present at a news conference at police headquarters had his statement read by Public Safety Director Al Pattavina.

The mayor referred to the Tuesday night clash between some 500 young persons and police as "intolerable."

He said, "The law will be enforced. The assault of police officers, the interruption of the flow of traffic on streets near the park, the destruction of public property, vandalism of private property and the assault of private citizens, was inexcusable. A continuation of this activity is intolerable.

"The confrontation at Memorial Park came about because a group of citizens chose not to obey the law. The entire incident would not have occurred if these young citizens had shown respect for the law and for officers sworn to uphold the law."

Three policemen were injured and eight young persons suffered minor injuries when officers attempted to enforce an 8 p.m. curfew ordered earlier Tuesday by the City Council.

Early Tuesday evening, police reported that one officer had been shot, but a police spokesman later said that report was "apparently unfounded."

Columbus-York Road Study Continued

By The Associated Press

The State Highway Advisory Commission has reversed an earlier decision approving a route recommended by the State Roads Department for a four-lane highway between Columbus and York.

The commission's action called for further information on area traffic flows before making a recommendation to Gov. J. James Exon who will make the final determination.

Is not likely that the information requested by the commission will be available before November.

The action was taken as a result of objections initiated by the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

The roads department recommendation, which came after a study by a private firm and was ratified by the commission, called for routing to start at Interstate 80 just west of York, bypass York to the west, then swing northeast across U.S. 81 and go straight north to the Platte River before heading northeast again to bypass Columbus on the north.

Columbus representatives proposed that the route use U.S. 81 straight south from Columbus and continue on to connect with Interstate 80 about 14 miles east of York.

Columbus Mayor Barney Micek said the proposal had been endorsed by Columbus along with Norfolk, Albion, David City and Shelby.

Deputy state engineer for design G. C. Strobel said the Columbus objections would mean a delay in additional planning, but Micek said he is not concerned about a delay since he contends the new route would cost less than the roads department proposal and would also provide a more direct route to Lincoln.

Fund Is Established At NU Honoring Sidney Telegraph's Retiring Lowe

Lowe's newspaper career spans more than 40 years, going back to the mid-1920s when he was a senior in high school and was offered a job by the late Guy V. Doran, publisher of the Telegraph from 1921 to 1951.

He said he had sold his interest in the Telegraph Printing Co. Inc., leaving John Gottschalk as the only holder of stock in the firm. Lowe has been a co-owner of the business since 1951.

Lowe said he would continue to contribute some material to the newspaper, including a widely-read column, The Lowe Down, started in the 1930's.

Recalling his start in the profession, Lowe said "Mr. Doran gave me complete freedom to write and roam, and this was the beginning of a lifelong romance with journalism."

Lowe's community leadership was recognized two years ago when he became the initial recipient of the Cheyenne County Chamber of Commerce "Silver Spur" award, given for outstanding contributions to this western Nebraska City.

Civic Leader

He was a past president of the Sidney Chamber of Commerce, the Sidney Rotary Club and Sidney Country Club, a former mayor and city Council member, and has been active in other civic and service organizations.

Nebraska News

Gottschalk has been associated with the Telegraph four years. He is a member of a longtime western Nebraska newspaper family and is a graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism.

'Encourage Quality'

Gottschalk announced that the "Jack H. Lowe Fund is being established to encourage quality in community newspapers in Nebraska. It is named for, and will honor a man whose reputation in community journalism is widespread, he said.

"This is one of the most gratifying things that has happened to the school in my 11 years here at the University of Nebraska," said Neale Copple, journalism director.

"Educators and working journalists have floundered for a longtime in their efforts to bring together the state's community press and its School of Journalism.

"The establishment of this fund with its flexibility and its innovations holds more promise than any of the ideas I have seen to date . . . It is built on a base of close cooperation with the state's press."

The fund will be administered through the NU School of Journalism on the advice of a board comprised of a faculty member, a student, the president of the Nebraska Press Association and the publisher of the Sidney Telegraph.

"The establishment of this kind of innovative, flexible fund illustrates the best kind of working relationship between the people and their university," Chancellor Durward Varner said.

The fund, the amount still to be determined, will work in such areas as:

—Establishment of a Nebraska Journalism Hall of Honor in the new quarters of the School of Journalism field and, at the same time, give community editors a chance to come to the School of Journalism to work with students.

—Establishment of a program of publication of material value to both the community newspapers and the School of Journalism.

—A program to encourage internships and scholarships on community newspapers in Nebraska, including a Jack H. Lowe internship on the Sidney Telegraph.

—A program to acknowledge and honor superior community service by Nebraska newspapers which consistently perform at a level of service which deserves special recognition.

—A program to incorporate the functions of community journalism into the curriculum of the School of Journalism in an innovative approach that escapes from the usual curriculum courses.

—A program which will encourage community newspapers in Nebraska to draw upon the resources of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism by submitting special reporting projects from their areas and assignment of a student team to move into the area to cover the story.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said it but nobody seemed to pay much attention. ". . . We've gone through this terrible introspective, almost masochistic twinge of conscience in our country regarding the Vietnam war," he said, "where we look with favor on anything good that happens to the enemy."

Agnew was engaging in a new kind of "prior restraint" against the New York Times and Washington Post in the Pentagon Papers case. He was criticizing the press in advance for what he said it would say in event of certain enemy successes in Vietnam.

Agnew didn't stir up much debate because he is not taken too seriously any more. But President Nixon followed up Agnew a few days later in Kansas City, Mo., where he supposedly gave a briefing to Midwestern newspapermen.

Not having attended the Kansas City briefing, we can comment only on the published reports but they indicate the President delivered more of a sermon than a briefing. He struck the same theme hit by Agnew and you can't ignore it when the President of the United States says it.

The U.S., said Nixon, is turning to drugs and defeatism and approaching the decadence that destroyed history's great civilizations. He called for a national moral regeneration to pull the nation through its "crisis of confidence."

Maybe we are a little too introspective and it is certainly true that we have in this nation many things to be proud of. But one would have to be blind not to see that there are also a lot of things wrong with the nation and its people.

A leading Negro civil rights advocate recently moved from the North to the South, saying that life for Negroes was more pleasant in the former land of slavery than in the supposedly freedom of the North. The truth is that we have pushed integration down the throats of southerners while leaving the North alone in its smug and not-so-subtle prejudice.

In the hearts of countless millions of Americans, the black man is still inferior and will never be allowed to assume any different status. There isn't much room for pride in our morality on that score.

The Vietnam study by the Pentagon has further shaken the pride and confidence of the people of the nation in their government. It shows a sorry history of allegiance to questionable policy decisions and an obvious lack of candor with the public.

We have long defended the U.S. position in Vietnam but must admit that our confidence in that position has been badly shaken in recent weeks. What really bothers us is that, if a mistake was made, we are not so certain that it was even an honest one.

When presidential advisor Henry Kissinger visited this week in India, he was greeted with derision by people protesting our continued shipment of arms to West Pakistan, a government that has systematically slaughtered thousands of East Pakistan residents.

Our reason for doing so constitutes a lame excuse while, at the same time, we have done practically nothing to relieve the suffering of hundreds of thousands of Pakistanian refugees in India.

Perhaps our international affairs are more in need of moral regeneration than are the citizens of our nation.

Domestically, you can look at any number of things beyond Negro civil rights and find plenty of challenge. It is true that you can also find some good things, even on the international scene, but introspection may be just what the doctor ordered.

What destroyed past great civilizations was not just the decadence that set in, but rather, the failure to recognize it and do anything about it. Humanity is not perfect and doesn't need to go about in sack cloth and ask when it makes a mistake, but it does need the courage to recognize its shortcomings.

You don't need to go about beating your breast but you do need to see your faults for what they are. You do need to look at your responsibilities and attempt to meet them with integrity and good will.

The President may have a point in some of what he says but all is not all right with the world and civilization has a long way to go before it can sit back and admire its handiwork.

Purchase Of Handguns Continues To Increase

WASHINGTON — The shootout at Columbus Circle in New York City is reviving talk of the need for stronger federal gun control legislation. Joseph A. Colombo was shot in the head by a black man wielding a 7.65-millimeter automatic pistol of foreign manufacture. The supposed assailant was killed moments later by a .38-caliber nickel-plated Smith & Wesson revolver, although police at last report did not know who had shot him. Two other handguns were seized by police after the melee, including a .38-caliber Colt Cobra and a .38-caliber Arminus.

The incident at the Italian-American rally spotlights a scary feature of American society. People are armed to the teeth. Sales of handguns are growing despite the restrictive federal Gun Control Act of 1968. And some observers fear that the private arsenals will lead to other "high noons" on urban streets.

One gun control advocate, Carl Bakal, sets forth the amazing statistics on handguns in Saturday Review. Some 24 million handguns already are in private hands, and an additional 2.5 million are being manufactured domestically or imported every year. One new handgun is sold in the United States every 13 seconds, and used handguns are being traded at the rate of more than two a minute.

Handguns now account for half of all homicides in this country and 75 per cent of all firearms homicides. Fifty-one policemen have been killed so far in 1971, most of them with handguns. Ironically, sales of handguns increased once the Gun Control Act went into effect.

The failure of the 1968 Act to reduce violence by firearms is mirrored in a sign pasted in the window of a hardware store in Virginia: "Handguns for sale: no restrictions." The law has numerous loopholes. As an example, it prohibits the importation of the cheap snub-nosed pistols and revolvers known as "Saturday night specials." But the law failed to prohibit the importation of their parts.

"Hence, thanks to Yankee ingenuity," writes Bakal, "a quaint new 'cottage industry' has sprung up in this country. Enterprising former importers have been assembling Saturday night specials here using parts from abroad and cheap local labor—in Miami, Cuban refugees are paid about $1.90 an hour—working in makeshift factories such as converted garages and even a church."

The 1968 act's prohibition against interstate mail-order sale of these and other guns has been circumvented by shipping of guns between licensed dealers in different states. Simply place an order locally and wait for the gun to arrive at the dealer for pickup. A driver's license is usually considered sufficient identification.

The gun lobby continues to argue that what needs controlling is not guns but criminals. The N.R.A. editorial, for example, says "stiffer sentences for gunmen and ambushers seem like the very thing to take them out of circulation." President Nixon and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell told a conference of law enforcement officers that they were opposed to further gun controls. Without White House backing, attempts to stop the growth of private arsenals have little chance.

An Open Election

Madame Nhu, the sister-in-law of assassinated South Vietnamese President Diem, said in a televised interview Tuesday that the United States, through its behind-the-scenes promotion of the Diem coup, robbed South Vietnam of victory over the communists—or at least a livable accommodation with them, and now, some seven years later, is in the process of selling its ally down the river.

That's bitter hindsight, which may be borne out in part when the whole scheme of U.S. involvement in Vietnam is judged by history, long after it is over.

It is now somewhat ironic, but understandable, that the hero of the coup against Diem and a potential challenger in the South Vietnamese presidential election in October, Gen. Duong Van Minh, charges that President Thieu rigged his last election in 1967 and now is rigging this one and calls upon the U.S. to use all its influence to assure a fair and honest contest.

For all appearances, President Thieu is rigging the coming election by making it difficult, if not impossible, for anyone to run against him. And there has never been any indication that Thieu commands the respect or devotion of any sizable body of his countrymen. With American military assistance on the downswing and the stage of political negotiations upcoming, it is essential that representatives of the Saigon government have popular support or it will not have much of a chance of having a major voice in the coming settlement.

"That's why this election is vital," Minh says. "It is imperative that the people vote freely for the man of their choice. Otherwise, if the election is rigged, then it will be the end of South Vietnam and the honor of America will be buried in this country. It will be a defeat for us and for you as well."

It sounds very much like a presidential candidate talking, but the argument has the ring of truth to it. Pressuring for an open election would be the last good thing the U.S. can do for South Vietnam.

A Universal Man

Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong was truly a universal man. His brilliant career as a trumpet player, concentrating on jazz, was evidence of the fact that there is a great equality among all civilization if only we could find the means of harnessing it.

Wherever he went, among the rich or the poor, the educated or uneducated, royalty or African tribesmen, he was received with a tremendous ovation. He played to audiences that lived under all systems of government and lived by a wide variety of principles and values.

But the music he played was a stranger to no man or woman. His jazz was something that everyone could understand, everyone could appreciate.

What a fantastic world it would be if we could find the political means to so transcend the divisions that exist among the people of the world, even the people of a single nation. If we could only find common grounds on which all men could live in respect for one another, as Satchmo found with his music, the suffering and injustice of the world would disappear.

It could be that such a point in time is possible but just as death has silenced Satchmo, the failures of humanity cut short the fruition of our potential. Something, it seems, is always in the way of man's reaching the goal of full dignity that he seeks.

What Satchmo gave to the world was enjoyment, an excitement of the soul, an expansion of the mind. He carried no great cause, although he was not untouched by the cause of civil rights that still affects the people of his race. His message was one of music, something meant for the pleasure of people as well as the story it might seek to convey. Perhaps his life tells us that the concept of all mankind's equality is really our greatest hope.

Price-Tag On Welfare Reform Bill More Perhaps Than Current Benefits Received

WASHINGTON — The price of reform in America has always been high, frequently so high that it costs more than it is worth. Powerful interests, impregnable institutions, entrenched members of Congress — by the time all have exacted their concessions and protected their positions, the most powerful reform movements in the worthiest causes are likely to find themselves with less than half a loaf of stale bread.

That may not be precisely the case with H.R. 1, the welfare reform bill that has passed the House under the joint stewardship of the Nixon administration and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills. Still, this is a measure that yields so much in return for the reform it seeks that it has to be asked whether the price is not too high.

The basic reforms pursued by H.R. 1 are highly laudable. It would establish an income floor of $2,400 a year for dependent families of four, extend this aid to the "working poor" as well as the indigent, and provide some financial relief for hard-pressed states.

But aside from the fact that $2,400 is grossly inadequate in most areas, H.R. 1 has been pushed through the House Ways and Means Committee and the House itself only at considerable cost. For instance:

Forty-five states and the District of Columbia now provide more than $2,400 a year in cash and food stamps (which will not be available to recipients under H.R. 1) and 22 states pay more than $2,400 in cash. Yet, there is nothing in H.R. 1 that would require states to supplement the federal payment so that no recipient would lose money or benefits, and no federal incentive to lure states into such supplementation.

H.R. 1 also would impose more stringent work requirements on welfare recipients, including the mothers of fatherless children, without adequate provision for their day care. It would force these persons to accept work at $1.20 an hour instead of at the legal minimum wage, a provision that makes it all too likely that a well-intended welfare reform might in some cases be warped into a source of cheap forced labor

At the same time, where are the jobs for the adults among the 10.6 million current recipients of aid for dependent children? Unemployment is already at about six per cent, and Mr. Nixon has just vetoed a public works bill that was intended to provide emergency jobs. Are the 200,000 temporary public service jobs to be provided by H.R. 1 and the 200,000 more to be provided by a separate emergency employment act sufficient even for welfare recipients, let alone the other unemployed?

H. R. 1 also would stiffen eligibility requirements, notably by disqualifying any person who during the previous nine months had earned an amount of income that, if earned regularly, would make him ineligible for assistance. For many persons otherwise eligible, this will impose a nine-month waiting period for aid—in contrast to the "current need" standard of assistance that now prevails. Other persons—many seasonal and migrant workers, for instance—will be made permanently ineligible by this provision.

H.R. 1 also would impose numerous harassing regulations—for instance, one that would discourage recipients from seeking a hearing before their grants could be terminated, even though in 1970 the Supreme Court ruled that recipients were entitled to such hearings. The bill also would rule out any system of certifying eligibility by the prospective recipient's affidavit or need and force an investigation of all applicants.

Such provisions as these tend to negate two of the major aims of most welfare reformers—to permit a higher degree of dignity and privacy to poor people who need help, and to reduce the vast, costly bureaucratic machinery now needed to administer and "police" the program.

There are those who argue resignedly that this is only the price that has to be paid for serious welfare reform. But the real question is whether there can be a serious welfare reform when provisions such as these are imposed upon it; for "income maintenance" and "aid to the working poor" become only a different, perhaps marginally better means of doing what we are already doing if welfare continues to be demeaning to its recipients, inadequate to their needs, bogged down in red tape and suspicion, punitive in spirit and insufficient to break the cycle of dependency.

Those are qualities that will have to be eliminated by any welfare reform worthy of the name, and worthy of the supposed generosity of the American people. Unfortunately, the Senate Finance Committee, to which H.R. 1 now has been delivered, turns a meaner eye and a flintier heart on the poor than does the Ways and Means Committee, if that is possible; so the likelihood is that an even higher price will yet be exacted for the sad remnants of reform.

Westward Ho To China

PARIS — Washington has never before engaged in such intricate and widespread negotiations, affecting our relationships with so many lands, including Russia and China, as those now under way in Europe and Asia.

The SALT arms limitations discussions with Moscow have been under way for 20 months. Intermittent conversations are proceeding simultaneously on a possible formula to avoid renewed war in the Middle East. There is a hint of some new life in the Paris Vietnam talks. Bilateral contacts have just occurred at our initiative with Japan and other Far Eastern states.

Moreover, the five nuclear powers are imperceptibly inching toward a conference on atomic-weapons control. At a slightly less snail-like if scarcely speedy pace, movement can now be detected in the old Soviet idea of a European security conference and the Western proposal for Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions.

No statesman officially acknowledges any link between one or the other of these subjects. Yet it is evident that willy-nilly we begin to find ourselves in the kind of old-fashioned global bargaining situation which Soviet diplomacy relishes more than does our own. The diplomatic skein is inextricably interwoven.

Thus, continual paring of committed forces, especially those of the U.S.A. and Canada, makes NATO lay ever more stress on tactical nuclear arms in its current strategy. The cut-down in Western divisions forces the alliance to hope for a similar cut-down by Warsaw Pact divisions.

However, if Russia pulls troops from Eastern Europe, this is an easier withdrawal — which can be easily reversed—than a similar North American retreat across the Atlantic. Additionally, the importance of nuclear arms to NATO increases as this takes place. West Europe has shown itself unready to substitute its own divisions for those taken away by transatlantic allies.

The primordial importance of SALT is, if anything, heightened and the possibility of a five-power atomic meeting becomes more imperative. Yet SALT, intricate and cautious as its discussions have been, is less complicated than the proposed MBFR negotiations which would precede an European security conference.

The Russians now like the old NATO idea of MBFR in the hopes that they can accelerate the North American withdrawal. But MBFR talks will probably take even longer than SALT. About all they could initially do is provide the U.S. President with an argument to Congress that any unilateral withdrawal would be dangerous while mutual withdrawals are being negotiated.

If — which is politically questionable at this moment of American despair and hysteria—the United States finally recognizes the need to keep a substantial force here. Moscow would probably accept that decision.

Similarly, Russia would likely show itself more generous than so far indicated on occidental trade terms, East-West freedom of movement and culture, a German modus vivendi, and arms limitations. Why? The answer is simple: China.

The reasons for Western hopes of detente are largely economic. But Russia wants to tidy up its European boundaries during the next decade because of its fear that China, in the 1980's, will be a major danger to the Soviet system.

Mutual fear lies behind both Russian and Chinese endeavors to improve relationships with the West, above all the United States. Therefore Washington must take special care to examine all implications of the dreamed-of European security conference and non-aggression accord between NATO and the Warsaw Pact.

The U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. are Pacific as well as Atlantic powers, with Asian as well as European interests. Two American states, Hawaii and Alaska, lean far eastward. It is imperative that any NATO-Warsaw Pact nonaggression treaty (which must obviously include both superpowers) cannot be interpreted as having any commitment outside the European-Atlantic or Russo-American border areas.

The United States must not allow itself to appear legally neutralized toward China in the event of a Sino-Soviet war — on the grounds that Washington's alliance had agreed to such a position with Moscow's alliance. Clearly the Kremlin would want to free its hand — not just in Western Europe but also in the U.S.A. —for a tough Soviet stand against China. Peking worries about precisely that. The warp and woof of present diplomatic maneuvers embraces the entire world and we shouldn't even seem to encourage a hard Russian policy in the Orient

Patchwork Prairie Country

Holidays have a way of taking care of themselves on the farm. There are no long week-ends to get away from it all. When someone asked me what we were going to do on the Fourth of July, I said we would probably celebrate in the wheat field, which is exactly the way things developed.

Golden grain will not wait until a long week-end is over before being harvested. The kernels shatter or heavy wheat goes down, making the harvest difficult. There is always the possibility of high wind or hail to threaten the crop. The result is that no farmer could be at ease celebrating a long week-end with his money in the fields of golden grain. He has strived and struggled and worried many anxious moments to bring the wheat to the point of harvest and he is not going to leave the task partly finished before having a good time.

Time was when the wheat harvest was the main harvest of the year. Now it seems to be secondary to the milo and corn harvest in the autumn. Three or four days of good dry cutting weather and many farmers have their grain safely stored in bins. There is still that same satisfaction that there was years ago to know the grain is in from the fields

In the overgrown pastures and abandoned roadsides, the white blossoms of Queen Anne's lace can be seen in full bloom. Filmy as a cobweb, the tiny white petals are bound together in a delightful network of stems. At the center is a dark purple drop, as luxurious and unexpected as a rare jewel, cushioned in the delicate white petals.

Surely Queen Anne could not have had a greater honor bestowed upon her than to have this wild flower named for her. This flower is a vegetable also, being a member of the carrot family

There was a time in ancient history when women made garlands or Queen Anne's lace and wore them in their hair instead of feathers which had been the vogue. I would much prefer the beauty of this wild flower to the feathers of birds that no doubt were killed for their feathers alone.

Picturesque Portraits I would like to frame for the keeping.

Free-blowing oceanic fields of golden wheat rising and falling like a changing tide in a nomadic wind.

The simple beauty of a full-blown rose nodding to the sun and wind.

Duong Van Minh, charges that President Thieu rigged his last election in 1967 and now is rigging this one and calls upon the U.S. to use all its influence to assure a fair and honest contest.

For all appearances, President Thieu is rigging the coming election by making it difficult, if not impossible, for anyone to run against him. And there has never been any indication that Thieu commands the respect or devotion of any sizable body of his countrymen. With American military assistance on the downswing and the stage of political negotiations upcoming, it is essential that representatives of the Saigon government have popular support or it will not have much of a chance of having a major voice in the coming settlement.

"That's why this election is vital," Minh says. "It is imperative that the people vote freely for the man of their choice. Otherwise, if the election is rigged, then it will be the end of South Vietnam and the honor of America will be buried in this country. It will be a defeat for us and for you as well."

It sounds very much like a presidential candidate talking, but the argument has the ring of truth to it. Pressuring for an open election would be the last good thing the U.S. can do for South Vietnam.

A Universal Man

Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong was truly a universal man. His brilliant career as a trumpet player, concentrating on jazz, was evidence of the fact that there is a great equality among all civilization if only we could find the means of harnessing it.

Wherever he went, among the rich or the poor, the educated or uneducated, royalty or African tribesmen, he was received with a tremendous ovation. He played to audiences that lived under all systems of government and lived by a wide variety of principles and values.

But the music he played was a stranger to no man or woman. His jazz was something that everyone could understand, everyone could appreciate.

What a fantastic world it would be if we could find the political means to so transcend the divisions that exist among the people of the world, even the people of a single nation. If we could only find common grounds on which all men could live in respect for one another, as Satchmo found with his music, the suffering and injustice of the world would disappear.

It could be that such a point in time is possible but just as death has silenced Satchmo, the failures of humanity cut short the fruition of our potential. Something, it seems, is always in the way of man's reaching the goal of full dignity that he seeks.

What Satchmo gave to the world was enjoyment, an excitement of the soul, an expansion of the mind. He carried no great cause, although he was not untouched by the cause of civil rights that still affects the people of his race. His message was one of music, something meant for the pleasure of people as well as the story it might seek to convey. Perhaps his life tells us that the concept of all mankind's equality is really our greatest hope.

C. L. SULZBERGER
Westward Ho To China

PARIS — Washington has never before engaged in such intricate and widespread negotiations, affecting our relationships with so many lands, including Russia and China, as those now under way in Europe and Asia.

The SALT arms limitations discussions with Moscow have been under way for 20 months. Intermittent conversations are proceeding simultaneously on a possible formula to avoid renewed war in the Middle East. There is a hint of some new life in the Paris Vietnam talks. Bilateral contacts have just occurred at our initiative with Japan and other Far Eastern states.

Moreover, the five nuclear powers are imperceptibly inching toward a conference on atomic-weapons control. At a slightly less snail-like if scarcely speedy pace, movement can now be detected in the old Soviet idea of a European security conference and the Western proposal for Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions.

No statesman officially acknowledges any link between one or the other of these subjects. Yet it is evident that willy-nilly we begin to find ourselves in the kind of old-fashioned global bargaining situation which Soviet diplomacy relishes more than does our own. The diplomatic skein is inextricably interwoven.

Thus, continual paring of committed forces, especially those of the U.S.A. and Canada, makes NATO lay ever more stress on tactical nuclear arms in its current strategy. The cut-down in Western divisions forces the alliance to hope for a similar cut-down by Warsaw Pact divisions.

However, if Russia pulls troops from Eastern Europe, this is an easier withdrawal — which can be easily reversed—than a similar North American retreat across the Atlantic. Additionally, the importance of nuclear arms to NATO increases as this takes place. West Europe has shown itself unready to substitute its own divisions for those taken away by transatlantic allies.

The primordial importance of SALT is, if anything, heightened and the possibility of a five-power atomic meeting becomes more imperative. Yet SALT, intricate and cautious as its discussions have been, is less complicated than the proposed MBFR negotiations which would precede an European security conference.

The Russians now like the old NATO idea of MBFR in the hopes that they can accelerate the North American withdrawal. But MBFR talks will probably take even longer than SALT. About all they could initially do is provide the U.S. President with an argument to Congress that any unilateral withdrawal would be dangerous while mutual withdrawals are being negotiated.

If — which is politically questionable at this moment of American despair and hysteria—the United States finally recognizes the need to keep a substantial force here, Moscow would probably accept that decision.

Similarly, Russia would likely show itself more generous than so far indicated on occidental trade terms, East-West freedom of movement and culture, a German modus vivendi, and arms limitations. Why? The answer is simple: China.

The reasons for Western hopes of detente are largely economic. But Russia wants to tidy up its European boundaries during the next decade because of its fear that China, in the 1980's, will be a major danger to the Soviet system.

Mutual fear lies behind both Russian and Chinese endeavors to improve relationships with the West, above all the United States. Therefore Washington must take special care to examine all implications of the dreamed-of European security conference and non-aggression accord between NATO and the Warsaw Pact.

The U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. are Pacific as well as Atlantic powers, with Asian as well as European interests. Two American states, Hawaii and Alaska, lean far eastward. It is imperative that any NATO-Warsaw Pact nonaggression treaty (which must obviously include both superpowers) cannot be interpreted as having any commitment outside the European-Atlantic or Russo-American border areas.

The United States must not allow itself to appear legally neutralized toward China in the event of a Sino-Soviet war — on the grounds that Washington's alliance had agreed to such a position with Moscow's alliance. Clearly the Kremlin would want to free its hand — not just in Western Europe but also in the U.S.A. —for a tough Soviet stand against China. Peking worries about precisely that. The warp and woof of present diplomatic maneuvers embraces the entire world and we shouldn't even seem to encourage a hard Russian policy in the Orient.

LA VERNA HASSLER
Patchwork Prairie Country

Holidays have a way of taking care of themselves on the farm. There are no long week-ends to get away from it all. When someone asked me what we were going to do on the Fourth of July, I said we would probably celebrate in the wheat field, which is exactly the way things developed.

Golden grain will not wait until a long week-end is over before being harvested. The kernels shatter or heavy wheat goes down, making the harvest difficult. There is always the possibility of high wind or hail to threaten the crop. The result is that no farmer could be at ease celebrating a long week-end with his money in the fields of golden grain. He has strived and struggled and worried many anxious moments to bring the wheat to the point of harvest and he is not going to leave the task partly finished before having a good time.

Time was when the wheat harvest was the main harvest of the year. Now it seems to be secondary to the milo and corn harvest in the autumn. Three or four days of good dry cutting weather and many farmers have their grain safely stored in bins. There is still that same satisfaction that there was years ago to know the grain is in from the fields.

In the overgrown pastures and abandoned roadsides, the white blossoms of Queen Anne's lace can be seen in full bloom. Filmy as a cobweb, the tiny white petals are bound together in a delightful network of stems. At the center is a dark purple drop, as luxurious and unexpected as a rare jewel, cushioned in the delicate white petals.

Surely Queen Anne could not have had a greater honor bestowed upon her than to have this wild flower named for her. This flower is a vegetable also, being a member of the carrot family

There was a time in ancient history when women made garlands or Queen Anne's lace and wore them in their hair instead of feathers which had been the vogue. I would much prefer the beauty of this wild flower to the feathers of birds that no doubt were killed for their feathers alone.

Picturesque Portraits I would like to frame for the keeping.

Free-blowing oceanic fields of golden wheat rising and falling like a changing tide in a nomadic wind.

Purchase Of Handguns Continues To Increase

WASHINGTON — The shootout at Columbus Circle in New York City is reviving talk of the need for stronger federal gun control legislation. Joseph A. Colombo was shot in the head by a black man wielding a 7.65-millimeter automatic pistol of foreign manufacture. The supposed assailant was killed moments later by a .38-caliber nickel-plated Smith & Wesson revolver, although police at last report did not know who had shot him. Two other handguns were seized by police after the melee, including a .38-caliber Colt Cobra and a .38-caliber Arminus.

The incident at the Italian-American rally spotlights a scary feature of American society. People are armed to the teeth. Sales of handguns are growing despite the restrictive federal Gun Control Act of 1968. And some observers fear that the private arsenals will lead to other "high noons" on urban streets.

One gun control advocate, Carl Bakal, sets forth the amazing statistics on handguns in Saturday Review. Some 24 million handguns already are in private hands, and an additional 2.5 million are being manufactured domestically or imported every year. One new handgun is sold in the United States every 13 seconds, and used handguns are being traded at the rate of more than two a minute.

Handguns now account for half of all homicides in this country and 75 per cent of all firearms homicides. Fifty-one policemen have been killed so far in 1971, most of them with handguns. Ironically, sales of handguns increased once the Gun Control Act went into effect.

The failure of the 1968 Act to reduce violence by firearms is mirrored in a sign pasted in the window of a hardware store in Virginia: "Handguns for sale: no restrictions." The law has numerous loopholes. As an example, it prohibits the importation of the cheap snub-nosed pistols and revolvers known as "Saturday night specials." But the law failed to prohibit the importation of their parts.

"Hence, thanks to Yankee ingenuity," writes Bakal, "a quaint new 'cottage industry' has sprung up in this country. Enterprising former importers have been assembling Saturday night specials here using parts from abroad and cheap local labor—in Miami, Cuban refugees are paid about $1.90 an hour—working in makeshift factories such as converted garages and even a church."

The 1968 act's prohibition against interstate mail-order sale of these and other guns has been circumvented by shipping of guns between licensed dealers in different states. Simply place an order locally and wait for the gun to arrive at the dealer for pickup. A driver's license is usually considered sufficient identification.

The gun lobby continues to argue that what needs controlling is not guns but criminals. The N.R.A. editorial, for example, says "stiffer sentences for gunmen and ambushers seem like the very thing to take them out of circulation." President Nixon and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell told a conference of law enforcement officers that they were opposed to further gun controls. Without White House backing, attempts to stop the growth of private arsenals have little chance.

TOM WICKER

WASHINGTON — The price of reform in America has always been high, frequently so high that it costs more than it is worth. Powerful interests, impregnable institutions, entrenched members of Congress — by the time all have exacted their concessions and protected their positions, the most powerful reform movements in the worthiest causes are likely to find themselves with less than half a loaf of stale bread.

That may not be precisely the case with H.R. 1, the welfare reform bill that has passed the House under the joint stewardship of the Nixon administration and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills. Still, this is a measure that yields so much in return for the reform it seeks that it has to be asked whether the price is not too high.

The basic reforms pursued by H.R. 1 are highly laudable. It would establish an income floor of $2,400 a year for dependent families of four, extend this aid to the "working poor" as well as the indigent, and provide some financial relief for hard-pressed states.

But aside from the fact that $2,400 is grossly inadequate in most areas, H.R. 1 has been pushed through the House Ways and Means Committee and the House itself only at considerable cost. For instance:

Forty-five states and the District of Columbia now provide more than $2,400 a year in cash and food stamps (which will not be available to recipients under H.R. 1) and 22 states pay more than $2,400 in cash. Yet, there is nothing in H.R. 1 that would require states to supplement the federal payment so that no recipient would lose money or benefits, and no federal incentive to lure states into such supplementation.

H.R. 1 also would impose more stringent work requirements on welfare recipients, including the mothers of fatherless children, without adequate provision for their day care. It would force these persons to accept work at $1.20 an hour instead of at the legal minimum wage, a provision that makes it all too likely that a well-intended welfare reform might in some cases be warped into a source of cheap forced labor.

At the same time, where are the jobs for the adults among the 10.6 million current recipients of aid for dependent children? Unemployment is already at about six per cent, and Mr. Nixon has just vetoed a public works bill that was intended to provide emergency jobs. Are the 200,000 temporary public service jobs to be provided by H.R. 1 and the 200,000 more to be provided by a separate emergency employment act sufficient even for welfare recipients, let alone the other unemployed?

H. R. 1 also would stiffen eligibility requirements, notably by disqualifying any person who during the previous nine months had earned an amount of income that, if earned regularly, would make him ineligible for assistance. For many persons otherwise eligible, this will impose a nine-month waiting period for aid—in contrast to the "current need" standard of assistance that now prevails. Other persons—many seasonal and migrant workers, for instance—will be made permanently ineligible by this provision.

H.R. 1 also would impose numerous harassing regulations—for instance, one that would discourage recipients from seeking a hearing before their grants could be terminated, even though in 1970 the Supreme Court ruled that recipients were entitled to such hearings. The bill also would rule out any system of certifying eligibility by the prospective recipient's affidavit or need and force an investigation of all applicants.

Such provisions as these tend to negate two of the major aims of most welfare reformers—to permit a higher degree of dignity and privacy to poor people who need help, and to reduce the vast, costly bureaucratic machinery now needed to administer and "police" the program.

There are those who argue resignedly that this is only the price that has to be paid for serious welfare reform. But the real question is whether there can be a serious welfare reform when provisions such as these are imposed upon it; for "income maintenance" and "aid to the working poor" become only a different, perhaps marginally better means of doing what we are already doing if welfare continues to be demeaning to its recipients, inadequate to their needs, bogged down in red tape and suspicion, punitive in spirit and insufficient to break the cycle of dependency.

Those are qualities that will have to be eliminated by any welfare reform worthy of the name, and worthy of the supposed generosity of the American people. Unfortunately, the Senate Finance Committee, to which H.R. 1 now has been delivered, turns a meaner eye and a flintier heart on the poor than does the Ways and Means Committee, if that is possible; so the likelihood is that an even higher price will yet be exacted for the sad remnants of reform.

Poll: Nixon Standing Is Rising

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Nixon continues to rise in his standing with the American people and for the first time in eight months an even 50% of the public gives him positive marks on his handling of the presidency.

Nixon's current 50-48% positive rating reverses a 47-50% negative rating scored by the President in May and is sharply improved from a low of 41-56% negative recorded last March.

Although Nixon is in deep political trouble on economic issues, his improved overall standing can be directly traced to hopes, as the Vietnam war winds down, that he can achieve progress toward peace. Lessening of tensions with China and the Soviet Union has been a plus for the President.

Here is the trend in the overall ratings of the President as recorded repeatedly in the Harris Survey to the question asked once again of a cross section of 1,614 households between June 9 and 15:

"How would you rate the job President Nixon has done—excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?" (Those who answered "excellent" or "pretty good" are listed as positive, while "only fair" or "poor" answers are listed as negative.)

Dec., 1969	62%	36%	2%
November	60%	36%	4%
June	62%	34%	4%

On an overall basis, President Nixon appears to be returning to his level of the early part of 1970, when support for his performance hovered around the 50% mark of slightly better. He now appears definitely to have shaken out of the doldrums which beset him last winter.

However, when the specific Nixon rations are examined, two opposite trends appear to be in the making. His standing on foreign policy is moving up, marked particularly by hopes for some breakthrough in our relations with Rusia and China. At the same time, he is not registering and progress at all among the populace for his handling of the domestic economic situation.

NIXON HANDLING OF RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA

	Positive	Negative	Not Sure
Latest	51%	41%	8%
April	45%	50%	5%
February	42%	41%	17%
January	45%	42%	13%

For the first time this year, a majority of the public accords Nixon high marks on his handling of Russia. Hopes are particularly high that real progress can be made on the renewal of the SALT disarmament talks in Helsinki. On May 20, Nixon announced that a breakthrough in principle had been reached, although much hard negotiation still remains ahead. The public has also been highly positive in its response to the President's initial efforts to thaw relations with China.

The story on the economic front for the President is diametrically the opposite:

NIXON ON KEEPING THE ECONOMY HEALTHY

	Positive	Negative	Not Sure
Latest	26%	70%	4%
April	35%	60%	5%
February	27%	68%	5%
January	28%	68%	4%

The latest results show the lowest support for Nixon's economic policies yet recorded since he took office. He achieves comparably low ratings on other economic specifics: handling taxes and spending—23-72% negative; keeping unemployment down—17-79% negative; keeping down the cost of living—15-83% negative. Unquestionably, the dragging anchor of the Nixon administration in the eyes of the American people is on the economic front.

In fact, these late results put a framework on the upcoming election next year. More and more, it is shaping up as a campaign in which an incumbent President will plead for continuity in foreign policy efforts to achieve some progress on peace abroad, contrasted with bread-and-butter deficiencies at home. In many ways, this would become almost a classic Republican-Democratic confrontation, with the Democrats stressing domestic economic appeals and Republicans claiming they can better achieve peace.

This formulation, of course, was the pattern throughout the Eisenhower years of the 1950's. The only difference, however, is that President Nixon has yet to accomplish his much-stated objective of liquidating U.S. involvement in Vietnam and he is much more prone to be judged on his concrete performance than in terms of the popular faith which was General Eisenhower's strongest asset.

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Immunization against tetanus is of growing importance. Tetanus germs which lie dormant in the soil may contaminate wounds sustained through automobile accidents, injuries in sports, gardening or as a reuult of natural disasters. Any time a person's skin is broken, there is danger of tetanus as the germs enter the body and begin to multiply. As they do so, they form a very powerful toxin which paralyzes the muscles.

About one-half of all cases of tetanus seen in this country are the result of an injury so trivial as to go unnoticed until symptoms of tetanus occur. The only real safeguard is to keep your tetanus immunization up to date.

Tetanus, or lockjaw as it is commonly referred to, is a dread disease which kills more than half of its victims.

If you have not had a tetanus vaccination, or if it has been five years since your last booster shot, you should ask your family physician about the tetanus toxoid vaccine.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Garden Shop Grew From $25

By ROBERT PETERSON

One day my wife asked me to help her find some flats of pink petunias. We stopped at two or three garden shops along the highway, and finally found one which had petunias of just the proper hue to please the missus.

Not having noticed that particular shop before, I asked the owner how long he'd been in business. "A couple of years," he replied. "I used to be a grocery store clerk, but had a hobby of flowers and a homemade greenhouse and always dreamed of running a business like this."

When I asked how he launched it, he said that three years ago he bought $25 worth of seeds and planted several dozen flats of fuchsias, snapdragons, marigolds and asters. After they sprouted and were forming buds, he advertised them in the local paper. They turned out to be worth several hundred dollars.

"I got so many responses it dawned on me that maybe I should think seriously about going into business for myself. I was 44 and not very self-confident. But a friend encouraged me to quit and we pooled $1,000 for the venture."

He went on to say they rented a plot with just 15 feet of roadside frontage and began offering bedding plants and nursery stock for sale. Travelers began stopping, and the business prospered from the very beginning.

A few months later they graduated to a larger site, and now carry a line of gardening supplies including fertilizers, seeds, shrubs, and tools.

"I should have gone into business sooner," he said, looking down from a ladder where he was watering a platoon of pots from which peered hundreds of eager, pink-faced fuchsias.

It's a lot more work running your own place," he went on, "but gosh — it's great to be doing exactly what you want.

It may be tough for awhile. And if you've got a string of hungry children you'd better not attempt it. But remember this: people who are doing what they really want to do usually work so hard for the sheer love of it that they can't help becoming successful. It's a truism that if you like what you're doing, the money will come.

Poll: Nixon Standing Is Rising

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Nixon continues to rise in his standing with the American people and for the first time in eight months an even 50% of the public gives him positive marks on his handling of the presidency.

Nixon's current 50-48% positive rating reverses a 47-50% negative rating scored by the President in May and is sharply improved from a low of 41-56% negative recorded last March.

Although Nixon is in deep political trouble on economic issues, his improved overall standing can be directly traced to hopes, as the Vietnam war winds down, that he can achieve progress toward peace. Lessening of tensions with China and the Soviet Union has been a plus for the President.

Here is the trend in the overall ratings of the President as recorded repeatedly in the Harris Survey to the question asked once again of a cross section of 1,614 households between June 9 and 15:

"How would you rate the job President Nixon has done—excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?" (Those who answered "excellent" or "pretty good" are listed as positive, while "only fair" or "poor" answers are listed as negative.)

LOUIS HARRIS

On an overall basis, President Nixon appears to be returning to his level of the early part of 1970, when support for his performance hovered around the 50% mark of slightly better. He now appears definitely to have shaken out of the doldrums which beset him last winter.

However, when the specific Nixon rations are examined, two opposite trends appear to be in the making. His standing on foreign policy is moving up, marked particularly by hopes for some breakthrough in our relations with Rusia and China. At the same time, he is not registering and progress at all among the populace for his handling of the domestic economic situation.

NIXON HANDLING OF RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA

	Positive	Negative	Not Sure
Latest	51%	41%	8%
April	45%	50%	5%
February	42%	41%	17%
January	45%	42%	13%

For the first time this year, a majority of the public accords Nixon high marks on his handling of Russia. Hopes are particularly high that real progress can be made on the renewal of the SALT disarmament talks in Helsinki. On May 20, Nixon announced that a breakthrough in principle had been reached, although much hard negotiation still remains ahead. The public has also been highly positive in its response to the President's initial efforts to thaw relations with China.

The story on the economic front for the President is diametrically the opposite:

NIXON ON KEEPING THE ECONOMY HEALTHY

	Positive	Negative	Not Sure
Latest	26%	70%	4%
April	35%	60%	5%
February	27%	68%	5%
January	28%	68%	4%

The latest results show the lowest support for Nixon's economic policies yet recorded since he took office. He achieves comparably low ratings on other economic specifics: handling taxes and spending—23-72% negative; keeping unemployment down—17-79% negative; keeping down the cost of living—15-83% negative. Unquestionably, the dragging anchor of the Nixon administration in the eyes of the American people is on the economic front.

In fact, these late results put a framework on the upcoming election next year. More and more, it is shaping up as a campaign in which an incumbent President will plead for continuity in foreign policy efforts to achieve some progress on peace abroad, contrasted with bread-and-butter deficiencies at home. In many ways, this would become almost a classic Republican-Democratic confrontation, with the Democrats stressing domestic economic appeals and Republicans claiming they can better achieve peace.

This formulation, of course, was the pattern throughout the Eisenhower years of the 1950's. The only difference, however, is that President Nixon has yet to accomplish his much-stated objective of liquidating U.S. involvement in Vietnam and he is much more prone to be judged on his concrete performance than in terms of the popular faith which was General Eisenhower's strongest asset.

This Week's Health Tip

Immunization against tetanus is of growing importance. Tetanus germs which lie dormant in the soil may contaminate wounds sustained through automobile accidents, injuries in sports, gardening or as a reuult of natural disasters. Any time a person's skin is broken, there is danger of tetanus as the germs enter the body and begin to multiply. As they do so, they form a very powerful toxin which paralyzes the muscles.

About one-half of all cases of tetanus seen in this country are the result of an injury so trivial as to go unnoticed until symptoms of tetanus occur. The only real safeguard is to keep your tetanus immunization up to date.

Tetanus, or lockjaw as it is commonly referred to, is a dread disease which kills more than half of its victims.

If you have not had a tetanus vaccinatiin, or if it has been five years since your last booster shot, you should ask your family physician about the tetanus toxoid vaccine.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Garden Shop Grew From $25

By ROBERT PETERSON

One day my wife asked me to help her find some flats of pink petunias. We stopped at two or three garden shops along the highway, and finally found one which had petunias of just the proper hue to please the missus.

Not having noticed that particular shop before, I asked the owner how long he'd been in business. "A couple of years," he replied. "I used to be a grocery store clerk, but had a hobby of flowers and a homemade greenhouse and always dreamed of running a business like this."

When I asked how he launched it, he said that three years ago he bought $25 worth of seeds and planted several dozen flats of fuchsias, snapdragons, marigolds and asters. After they sprouted and were forming buds, he advertised them in the local paper. They turned out to be worth several hundred dollars.

"I got so many responses it dawned on me that maybe I should think seriously about going into business for myself. I was 44 and not very self-confident. But a friend encouraged me to quit and we pooled $1,000 for the venture."

He went on to say they rented a plot with just 15 feet of roadside frontage and began offering bedding plants and nursery stock for sale. Travelers began stopping, and the business prospered from the very beginning.

A few months later they graduated to a larger site, and now carry a line of gardening supplies including fertilizers, seeds, shrubs, and tools.

"I should have gone into business sooner," he said, looking down from a ladder where he was watering a platoon of pots from which peered hundreds of eager, pink-faced fuchsias.

It's a lot more work running your own place," he went on, "but gosh — it's great to be doing exactly what you want.

It may be tough for awhile. And if you've got a string of hungry children you'd better not attempt it. But remember this: people who are doing what they really want to do usually work so hard for the sheer love of it that they can't help becoming successful. It's a truism that if you like what you're doing, the money will come.

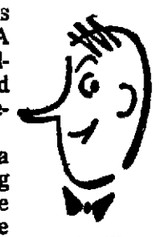
POSTCARD by Stan Kimball

A summer morning in French Canada. Golden sun sinks through the maples. The St. Lawrence is a sheet of silver. We get tidal action and salt water even this far inland. A freighter is riding the flood tide up to Quebec.



We rented a small log house. On the edge of Baie St. Paul. It is a small village. A couple of blocks of main streets. The tiny movie theater is showing "Airport" — French dubbed in.

There is a gray stone church, Normandy spires towering over the town.

It's French speaking country. Shopping yesterday I said in desperation: "Mademoiselle, do you speak English?"

She gave me an amazed look. She said: "Moi? Mais non."

She went up to the cash register and began telling the story to the other girls. I imagine she was saying: "There's one crazy cat. Do you know what he asked me?"

The log cottage—they call it a chalet here, and it certainly adds class—is on a hill top a mile over the village.

Just so we could keep some of the irritations of life, I put in a telephone. It turns out to be a party line—a dozen of us on the Old Wharf Road on it. The phone rings regularly, and we all get on shouting: " 'allo!'allo!"

The moppets immediately set up contacts with a bunch of neighbor children. The language seems to be no problem. They talk to them in English. The others answer in French.

They asked me: "Can we go with them and pick wild strawberries?"

I said: "How do you know they are going to pick wild strawberries?" They said: "Because they said so."

I said: "How do they say it. What words did they say?"

They said—exasperated as kids are with stupid grownups. "They just said it."

The second day, the youngest boy was spotted with red bites. I said: "I can't understand it. None of the rest of us are bitten. And the house is screened."

Some neighbors came by. They asked if we needed anything.

We thumbed the dictionary and asked what was biting the boy.

The women rattled on in a string of French. Sounded like they said some kind of small fly.

The house wren said: "Ask them why we don't get bitten."

I said: 'Ask they yourself. I don't know how to say it."

I said: "All children get bites." The neighbor ladies seemed to agree with this. They sputtered sympathy and, I think, some home remedies.

By evening the boy was irritable. I felt his forehead. He felt hot. I got out the thermometer and stuck it in his mouth. I pulled it out. It read 100 degrees.

I said: "He shouldn't get a fever from mosquito bites."

In the morning we took him down to the local doctor. He gave us the word in French. Then he leafed through my dictionary and showed it to me — chicken pox!

I said: "That fixes us in Baie St. Paul. Wait until the word gets around that we've been turning a Typhoid Mary on to the local kids."

I said: "You go around and tell the neighbors."

Isaid: "You

She said: "You can do it in French better."

I said: "You coward. Making a martini first."

I went along the Old Wharf Road — Rout du Vieux Quai — knocking on doors.

"Madam, I regret to tell you that my boy — the one who has been playing with your children has chicken pox."

Lively times in Baie St. Paul.

Insurance Study Plans Discussed By Committee

A Legislative Council interim study committee on insurance has held its first meeting and the six senators on the committee spent much of the time discussing the direction in which the committee should go.

Questions such as no-fault insurance and the need for compulsory liability insurance were discussed at the first committee meeting.

"It's my view," said Chairman Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway, "that auto insurance is not working properly now."

"Rates seem to be too high," said Waldron, "and young people are discriminated against.

Insurance Study Plans Discussed By Committee

A Legislative Council interim study committee on insurance has held its first meeting and the six senators on the committee spent much of the time discussing the direction in which the committee should go.

Questions such as no-fault insurance and the need for compulsory liability insurance were discussed at the first committee meeting.

"It's my view," said Chairman Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway, "that auto insurance is not working properly now."

"Rates seem to be too high," said Waldron, "and young people are discriminated against.

I understand that a man named Jack Noonan is the keeper of the world's most powerful chicken gun. What is a chicken gun? —Henpecked, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Up in Ottawa, Canada, Noonan has something to crow about.

The chicken gun is a $200,000, 70-foot-long steel barrel that shoots a chicken out of one end at 700 mph. Noonan and his research team are trying to find ways of protecting aircraft against mid air collisions with flying birds.

So far, no aircraft part has been found capable of withstanding the impact of Noonan's rapidly flying chicken and some skeptics are saying the project is strictly for the birds.

President Nixon called for "clean energy" production through things like nuclear reactors. How much energy is being produced now by reactors? Ecologist, Omaha

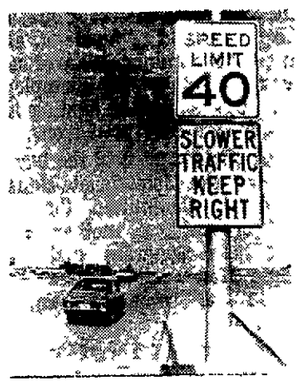
Since O St. has been widened and the speed hiked to 40 mph with signs indicating slow traffic to keep to the right, I still find people creeping along at 25 mph or less in the left hand lane. Can't these persons be ticketed for their failure to not abide by the posted regulations? Why can't the person driving too slow be as guilty of violating the law and contributing toward an accident as the guy who goes too fast?—E J. Ruppert, Lincoln



ACTION LINE: Lincoln Police Department Capt. Bob Myers says policy is to issue warning tickets to extremely slow drivers using the wrong lane and police experience has been that calling the driver's attention to the posted regulation is enough.

Myers reports that tickets have been issued in cases where a slow driver was seriously interferring with the normal flow of traffic and was creating a traffic hazard.

With this new postal service, how are rates set? Congress used to do that. —P.M., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A five-member Postal Rate Commission has the responsibility. The management of the new U.S. Postal Service certifies to the commission that costs are exceeding income and suggests a rate increase.

Public hearings would then be held and recommendations made to the Postal Board of Governors on what increase would be needed. If the board accepts the recommendations, the rate would go into effect.

Minibike Mishap Fatal For Youth

Omaha (AP)—Mark Dwyer, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dwyer of rural Cedar Bluffs, died here Wednesday of injuries sustained in a minibike accident at his home on June 22.

The boy was thrown from the minibike after striking an object in the farmyard.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Friday in St. Mary's Catholic Church in Cedar Bluffs.

Rep. Thone Proposes Hike In Earning Limit For Elders

Washington (UPI)—Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., said Wednesday he has introduced legislation seeking to increase from $1,680 to $4,000 the annual amount a person can earn and still receive full Social Security retirement benefits.

Thone said the economic needs of the elderly will be dealt with at the White House Conference on Aging in November, but said President Nixon also recognizes senior citizens "are looking for means to play a more productive role in our society."

Thone said one program devised to use the skills of the aged is Green Thumb for men and its companion program, Green Light, for women, which provide part-time work for retirees.

He said although funds are available for hiring only 75 persons in Nebraska, workers in the First Congressional District have built a park in Odell, refurbished the Little Britches Rodeo arena in Wymore, improved state parks in Gage, Knox, Lancaster, Otoe and Richardson Counties, cleaned up parks in Johnson, Firth, Syracuse, Tecumseh, Table Rock and Pawnee City, and redecorated Nebraska Highway Department offices in Lincoln.

"I will work for expansion of this and similar programs that give retired citizens an opportunity to make meaningful contributions to their community and their state," Thone said.

Hansen Named To State Wheat Advisory Group

Hansen is president of the Kearney County Farmers Union and is past president of the Kearney County Wheat Growers Association.

Russian SALT Delegate 'To Work Constructively'

Helsinki (UPI) — Soviet Chief negotiator Vladimir S. Semenov arrived Wednesday for the fifth round of the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) with the United States and said he had "clearcut guidelines to work constructively" towards an agreement to curb nuclear arsenals.

Gerard C. Smith, the American delegation leader who arrived here Tuesday, said he expected "significant movement" towards a nuclear limitation treaty during the talks which resume Thursday at the Soviet Embassy.

(In Moscow, however, a Soviet commentator writing in the official Communist Party Newspaper Pravda accused U.S. military leaders, particularly Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird of the "rattling of sabres' and said "attempts to conduct these talks (SALT) from positions of strength may only spoil the atmosphere . . ." He said, "This should be borne in mind when viewing the prospects of the forthcoming round . . . in Helsinki.')

Semenov, a deputy foreign minister who has served as Soviet chief negotiator since SALT opened in Helsinki more than 18 months ago, arrived by train from Moscow.

"We are to do an important job," he said in his prepared arrival statement, which recalled the U.S.-Soviet agreement of May 20 to concentrate on a treaty limiting defensive anti-ballistic missile systems this year while still striving for progress in the limitation of offensive nuclear weapons.

"The Soviet government has given our delegation clear-cut guidelines to work constructively along these lines seeking to achieve concrete results.

"We express the hope that this desire will be reciprocal, which would enable us to move towards the achievement of the objectives set before us."

Semenov said Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev stressed in a June 1 speech that "the importance of the Soviet-U.S. talks is now increasing."

"A positive outcome of the talks would promote the interests of the peoples of the two countries and universal peace," Semenov said.

Graham Watched Round The Clock

New York (UPI) — Threats against the life of evangelist Billy Graham have become so numerous that he has round-the-clock protection at his Montreat, NC, home, it was reported Wednesday.

"I have been forced to fence my home with barbed wire and use patrol dogs day and night because of the number of threats," said Graham in an interview published by the National Enquirer.

"I am not afraid of threats — or death," he said.

MORE BANKS BOOST RATE

New York (UPI) — Many more banks raised the interest rate on prime business loans to 6% from 5½% Wednesday.

At the same time, President George Meany of the AFL-CIO followed House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman in urging President Nixon to roll the rate back.

"Bankers should not be allowed to profit at the expense of the rest of the nation,' Meany said. "The unconscionable rise in the basic price of money must not be permitted."

He added that higher interest rates would "abort the increase in residential construction and discourage the needed expansion of sales, production and employment" would harm business and consumers, and increase the burdens of state and local government.

The banks that raised the prime rate included Chase Manhattan, First National City, Chemical Bank, Irving Trust, of New York, Continental Illinois of Chicago, and Mellon National of Pittsburgh.

The nation's largest bank, Bank of America of San Francisco, joined the parade to the 6% prime rate late in the day and also increased its interest rate paid on passbook savings accounts to 4½% from 4%, effective Aug. 1.

Bank of America also increased the rate it charges on new mortgages to 7¾% from 7½%, effective at once.

Democratic Leaders Attack Nixonian Economic Policy

Washington (AP) — Democratic leaders of the House and Senate attacked the administration's economic policy at a committee hearing Wednesday. Their attack prompted a Republican congressman to say he was "pleased to have been invited to the Democratic Party's kickoff of the 1972 presidential campaign."

The comment was made by Rep. Ben. B. Blackburn, R-Ga., after Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, accused the administration of using "doubletalk" on unemployment figures and of fighting inflation with rosy predictions.

Mansfield denied at the hearing, of the Joint-Senate-House Economic Committee, that he had any political motives. He said both Congress and the White House must share the blame for economic conditions.

Defending Mansfield, Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the Montanan had been invited to testify as the spokesman for the majority party "and I make no apologies for that."

Mansfield was the leadoff witness for what Proxmire described as the committee's mid-year review of the economy.

In a statement submitted to the committee, House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, said the administration appears to have an economic policy based on "one, ignore the facts and, two, attempt to pump up the economy with pep talks."

"Benign neglect is the wrong policy at this time and Pollyanna-ish predictions of future improvement are obviously not buoying up the economy," Albert said.

Albert said that if President Nixon did not want to impose across-the-board wage and price controls, "he should at least establish a wage-price review board as recommended by his own chief advisers as a minimal first step."

Mansfield also called for wage-price controls on a temporary basis. He added he was pleased "the President is knocking heads together in the steel industry."

Russian SALT Delegate 'To Work Constructively'

Helsinki (UPI) — Soviet Chief negotiator Vladimir S. Semenov arrived Wednesday for the fifth round of the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) with the United States and said he had "clearcut guidelines to work constructively" towards an agreement to curb nuclear arsenals.

Gerard C. Smith, the American delegation leader who arrived here Tuesday, said he expected "significant movement" towards a nuclear limitation treaty during the talks which resume Thursday at the Soviet Embassy.

(In Moscow, however, a Soviet commentator writing in the official Communist Party Newspaper Pravda accused U.S. military leaders, particularly Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird of the "rattling of sabres' and said "attempts to conduct these talks (SALT) from positions of strength may only spoil the atmosphere . . ." He said, "This should be borne in mind when viewing the prospects of the forthcoming round . . . in Helsinki.')

Semenov, a deputy foreign minister who has served as Soviet chief negotiator since SALT opened in Helsinki more than 18 months ago, arrived by train from Moscow.

"We are to do an important job," he said in his prepared arrival statement, which recalled the U.S.-Soviet agreement of May 20 to concentrate on a treaty limiting defensive anti-ballistic missile systems this year while still striving for progress in the limitation of offensive nuclear weapons.

"The Soviet government has given our delegation clear-cut guidelines to work constructively along these lines seeking to achieve concrete results.

"We express the hope that this desire will be reciprocal, which would enable us to move towards the achievement of the objectives set before us."

Semenov said Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev stressed in a June 1 speech that "the importance of the Soviet-U.S. talks is now increasing."

"A positive outcome of the talks would promote the interests of the peoples of the two countries and universal peace," Semenov said.

County Faces Problem Keeping Under Ceiling

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Keeping the county's total 1971-72 fiscal year levy under the statutory ceiling of 14.28 mills was an apparent concern Wednesday of Lancaster County Commissioners as they continued hearing requests of department heads.

County Board Chairman Kenneth Bourne commented to most of the department heads appearing Wednesday that the commissioners would have to do some cutting in order to stay within the statutory limits but indicated that it would be almost impossible to cut the welfare proposals which showed substantial increases.

County Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert, in presenting his proposed budget which will require nearly $250,000 more in county tax dollars than last year, noted the biggest jump in the proposed budget is for medical costs for welfare recipients which is 28% higher than the 1970-71 budget.

$850,000 Requested

Trabert is requesting $850,000 in county funds for medical expenses for the 1971-72 fiscal year as compared to $665,000 budgeted last year and $623,205.27 actually spent.

He explained that this substantial increase is due to continued rising medical costs as well as a new program which is expected to go into effect Jan. 1, 1972.

He said under the new program, categorical programs such as Old Age Assistance and Aid to the Disabled will be transferred to the federal government except for the medical expenses which will continue to be a local expense.

See Good Increase

According to Trabert, the leniency of the requirements under the proposed new program to be transferred to the federal government, will increase the case load substantially thus increasing local medical costs.

The State Welfare officials have estimated a 30% increase in medical expenditures for the coming fiscal year he told the commissioners.

Other proposed welfare expenditures to be paid out of county tax funds total $360,450 as compared with $306,800 budgeted last year and $305,753.92 actually spent.

Increase of 17%

These figures reflect a 17% increase over last year's budget and an increase of 14.6% over expenditures for the previous year.

Sheriff Merle Karnopp, in outlining his budget requests, suggested the commissioners give some consideration to a garage for patrol cars.

He said parking the cars outside during the winter creates a problem in addition to not having a place to change tires, or to store large pieces of evidence in criminal cases.

Commissioner Bob Colin indicated that he felt a garage should be considered but also suggested that the sheriff's patrol cars be kept in use all the time rather than leaving some of them parked while others are in service.

Might Be Possible

Karnopp said that if the county wanted to keep replacing cars or adding vehicles to the sheriff's fleet, this might be possible.

Colin said he'd rather see the county buy new ones when the others are worn out than to see some of them standing in the lot part of the time.

The possibility of utilizing all patrol cars in the sheriff's office work rather than deputies having to use their personal vehicles ard being paid mileage was also brought up.

Car Problem

Karnopp said that use of personal vehicles is a problem many times and cited one instance where a prisoner tried to slash his wrists and the deputy's car had blood stains on the upholstery which necessitated a reupholstery job.

He said that the county doesn't carry insurance for such damage and the deputy must suffer the loss.

Less Than Requested

He said last year that two commissioners informed him that the bailiffs were getting the $50 per month increase requested for each of them but when the letter was received by the judges the increases were cut $10 each to $40 per month.

Judge Scheele said that this didn't help the morale of bailiffs for a while and asked that the commissioners this year take this into consideration when acting on the $50 per month sought again this year for each of the bailiffs.

He noted that the District Court bailiffs in Omaha are now receiving $50 per month more than Lancaster District Court bailiffs and that the bailiffs in Lincoln Municipal Court are receiving the same salary as Lancaster District Court bailiffs.

County Faces Problem Keeping Under Ceiling

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Keeping the county's total 1971-72 fiscal year levy under the statutory ceiling of 14.28 mills was an apparent concern Wednesday of Lancaster County Commissioners as they continued hearing requests of department heads.

County Board Chairman Kenneth Bourne commented to most of the department heads appearing Wednesday that the commissioners would have to do some cutting in order to stay within the statutory limits but indicated that it would be almost impossible to cut the welfare proposals which showed substantial increases.

County Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert, in presenting his proposed budget which will require nearly $250,000 more in county tax dollars than last year, noted the biggest jump in the proposed budget is for medical costs for welfare recipients which is 28% higher than the 1970-71 budget.

$850,000 Requested

Trabert is requesting $850,000 in county funds for medical expenses for the 1971-72 fiscal year as compared to $665,000 budgeted last year and $623,205.27 actually spent.

These figures reflect a 17% increase over last year's budget and an increase of 14.6% over expenditures for the previous year.

NAACP Told Separatism Of Blacks Must Be Halted

Minneapolis, Minn. (UPI) — Recent trends of black separatism must be "halted and reversed," or black Americans may find themselves more deprived and discriminated against, black Judge William H. Hastie told delegates to the annual NAACP convention Wednesday.

"Many Caucasians have glorified their whiteness, making a spurious virtue out of color and compensating for their own shortcomings by consoling themselves that at least they are white," Hastie said.

"Now many Negroes are practicing the same arrogant self-deception, glorifying their blackness, making a spurious virtue out of color and compensating for their shortcomings by shouting 'Black is beautiful.'"

Hastie, who retired June 1 after 21 years as Chief Judge of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia, blamed urban ghettoes for causing much of the separatist attitude.

'Still Poor'

"Fifty years ago, the majority of Negroes, poor, untrained and disinherited, lived in poverty," Hastie said. "Millions, still poor, untrained and still disinherited, have just moved into large cities."

He said the black migration into cities has continued and accelerated while whites have been moving into outer cities and suburbs.

"An alarming number of Negroes have tended uncritically to accept and encourage racial separatism in our country as a desirable and potentially rewarding pattern of American life," he said. "This trend must be halted and reversed, for it can lead only to greater bitterness and frustration and to even more inferior status than black Americans now experience."

English First

Earlier Wednesday, Dr. Wilson Riles, superintendent of public instruction and director of education for the California state department of education, told delegates that ghetto children must learn to speak basic English before they demand other courses in school.

"If it has to be a choice between your giving your child love or teaching him to read, I'll take teaching him to read," he said. "One way to build an image is to teach youngsters how to read and write."

He said he heard that blacks in a New York high school are demanding a course in Swahili.

"Let the youngsters learn how to speak basic English," Riles said. "Let's get ghetto language out of the school."

"I'm trying to be delicate. As soon as the school's integrated there's a demand for soul food. But, we're going to have to tell our young people that someone has got to know how to cook it."

Dr. Riles also called for a "partnership" among administrators, the public, teachers and parents to establish objectives for schools and students.

"Schools are built for children," he said. "Teachers want to have better benefits. They'd better concentrate on quality education, then the benefits will come."

Teamsters Boost President's Pay To $125,000

Miami Beach (UPI) — Delegates at the Teamsters Union convention Wednesday gave their president, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, a $25,000 annual pay raise, boosting his salary to $125,000 a year.

Even before the raise, Fitzsimmons was the highest paid union leader in the nation.

The increase — which is more than twice what his average member earns in a year — put him about $30,000 ahead of Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union, the next highest paid union chief.

Meany Makes $75,000

The Teamsters, with 2.1 million members, is the largest labor union in the nation. President George Meany of the 14.6 million-member AFL-CIO, a federation of labor unions, is paid $75,000 a year.

There was scattered opposition to the increase for Fitzsimmons and a boost from $75,000 up to $100,000 a year for Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Flynn.

"That's too doggone much for that position," complained Alex Luscutoff of Sacramento, Calif. "To say he (Fitzsimmons) is worth another $25,000 is too rich for my blood."

Theordore Daley, secretary treasurer of a local in Yonkers, N.Y., and a dissident candidate opposing Fitzsimmons' re-election, agreed that the raise was "entirely excessive."

Dues Increase OKd

The 2,600 delegates also approved a $2 per month minimum dues increase to $8 per month, and higher contributions to the international union headquarters — but only after a spirited 90-minute floor fight. Various delegates said their local members were opposed to a dues increase, could not afford it, and that such an increase would discourage membership in the union.

But the proposed changes were approved overwhelmingly. The amount of the dues going to the international union was boosted from $1.50 per month per member to $2.15.

Another proposed amendment to the union constitution was withdrawn after it was apparently determined it probably lacked broad support. This amendment would have permitted the union president to appoint local business agents, many of whom now are elected by the members.

The delegates also approved a court-ordered amendment permitting changes in the constitution by petition and referendum of the membership of the union. At present the only way to amend the Teamsters constitution is by a vote of delegates the convention, held every five years.

Two Missionaries Found Slain

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — Two American missionaries were found slain in bed Wednesday in the Dominican city of Santiago.

On their car outside were the words, "Death to the foreign traitors" and "Yankees get out."

The bodies of Paul Potter, 39, and his wife Nancy, 36, were found by their 10-year-old son David. They had been beaten and stabbed.

The Marshfield, Mo., couple also had a daughter, Nancy, 12. They had been working in the Dominican Republic as Baptist missionaries since 1966, a spokesman of the Baptist Foreign Mission Board said in Richmond, Va.

A maid in the Potter house said she noticed when she got up Wednesday that an outside door had been broken and asked David to tell his parents.

He knocked, then entered the bedroom.

"The spectacle was horrible," the maid said. "The Potters were lying in bed, bathed in blood." She said David fainted.

Members of the police homicide squad ruled out the possibility of robbery as a motive.

But the Baptist Mission Board spokesman in Richmond said Potter had drawn a large sum of money from the bank Tuesday to buy a motorcycle for reaching remote areas.

The U.S. Embassy in Santo Domingo said it would offer to help in the investigation.

NAACP Told Separatism Of Blacks Must Be Halted

Minneapolis, Minn. (UPI) — Recent trends of black separatism must be "halted and reversed," or black Americans may find themselves more deprived and discriminated against, black Judge William H. Hastie told delegates to the annual NAACP convention Wednesday.

"Many Caucasians have glorified their whiteness, making a spurious virtue out of color and compensating for their own shortcomings by consoling themselves that at least they are white," Hastie said.

"Now many Negroes are practicing the same arrogant self-deception, glorifying their blackness, making a spurious virtue out of color and compensating for their shortcomings by shouting 'Black is beautiful.'"

Hastie, who retired June 1 after 21 years as Chief Judge of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia, blamed urban ghettoes for causing much of the separatist attitude.

'Still Poor'

"Fifty years ago, the majority of Negroes, poor, untrained and disinherited, lived in poverty," Hastie said. "Millions, still poor, untrained and still disinherited, have just moved into large cities."

He said the black migration into cities has continued and accelerated while whites have been moving into outer cities and suburbs.

"An alarming number of Negroes have tended uncritically to accept and encourage racial separatism in our country as a desirable and potentially rewarding pattern of American life," he said. "This trend must be halted and reversed, for it can lead only to greater bitterness and frustration and to even more inferior status than black Americans now experience."

English First

Earlier Wednesday, Dr. Wilson Riles, superintendent of public instruction and director of education for the California state department of education, told delegates that ghetto children must learn to speak basic English before they demand other courses in school.

"If it has to be a choice between your giving your child love or teaching him to read, I'll take teaching him to read," he said. "One way to build an image is to teach youngsters how to read and write."

He said he heard that blacks in a New York high school are demanding a course in Swahili.

"Let the youngsters learn how to speak basic English," Riles said. "Let's get ghetto language out of the school."

"I'm trying to be delicate. As soon as the school's integrated there's a demand for soul food. But, we're going to have to tell our young people that someone has got to know how to cook it."

Dr. Riles also called for a "partnership" among administrators, the public, teachers and parents to establish objectives for schools and students.

"Schools are built for children," he said. "Teachers want to have better benefits. They'd better concentrate on quality education, then the benefits will come."

House Bill Would Limit Campaign Media Costs

Washington (AP) — A bill that would limit the amount of money political candidates can spend on television and other communications media was approved Wednesday by a House Commerce subcommittee.

Chairman Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., said the unrecorded vote on the bill followed party lines, with the Republicans opposed. McDonald presented it.

The bill would set a 10-cents-per-eligible-voter-limit on media spending, no more than half of which could be spent on television and radio.

It would also require television stations to offer political candidates time at the same rate they offer it to their most favored commercial advertiser.

And it would repeal the present requirement that all candidates for president and vice president must be offered equal time on television.

The spending ceiling, which would limit a presidential candidate to a total of about $14 million, only half of which could be spent on television, is the same as that in a bill now awaiting Senate action.

MacDonald's bill would add a provision establishing a communications price index which would determine the price per vote for future elections based on media costs in 1972.

The bill does not deal with other aspects of campaign reform such as limiting political contributions or requiring more detailed disclosure of contributions and expenditures. Other House committees are considering legislation in those areas.

Rep. Hastings Keith, R-Mass., ranking Republican on the subcommittee, said GOP opposition was directed in part to the proposed repeal of the equal-time requirement for presidential and vice presidential candidates.

He said the requirement should either be lifted for candidates for all federal elective offices or should be left intact. Amendments offered by the Republicans to that effect were defeated.

Keith also failed in an effort to ban the extension of credit to political candidates by airlines and telephone and telegraph companies.

MacDonald said he hoped the bill would be approved by the full committee in time for House action before Congress shuts down for an August recess, but he would not make any predictions.

"I just hope this doesn't become a partisan hassle," he said. "I hear rumblings that the administration doesn't want any bill and that they will put up roadblocks all along the line."

Parole Board To Reconsider Bid By Hoffa

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Board of Parole agreed Wednesday to move up its reconsideration of a bid for freedom by former Teamsters Union leader James R. Hoffa.

The board set Aug. 20 as the date for a rehearing of Hoffa's request for parole from a 13-year federal prison term. A review had been scheduled for next June.

Parole Board Chairman George J. Reed said the board found "sufficient new and substantial information" in Hoffa's case to warrant an appellate review of the merits of Hoffa's case by the full board.

A decision to review Hoffa's case required the vote of at least two of the board's seven members. The vote was not announced.

FDA Cites Can Defects, Recalls Bon Vivant Food

Washington (AP) — The government announced Wednesday it has ordered recall of all products manufactured by a New Jersey specialty food firm whose vichyssoise was linked to the botulism death last week of a New York man.

The Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Agriculture said in a joint announcement the action involving all soups, sauces and other canned food manufactured by Bon Vivant Soups Inc., of Newark, N.J., was precipitated by the finding of what was termed an unacceptable number of defective cans.

Federal officials emphasized that deformed or leaking cans indicate "inappropriate processing of food" but not necessarily harmful contamination such as with botulin toxin.

Federal inspectors are continuing their hunt for over 2,000 unaccounted-for Bon Vivant vichyssoise cans with the code number V-141-USA 71. Tests have confirmed poisonous botulin toxin in five cans of the soup.

"We hope that the botulism problem is confined to the one code of the one product," said Dr. Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of food and drugs. "This is all we have found to date.

"Nonetheless, we are finding too many defective cans in too many samples of the company's other products," he continued.

"We, therefore, have no choice but to remove all production from the market until all questions of contamination and processing defects have been resolved."

The FDA said the unaccounted-for cans of suspect Bon Vivant vichyssoise include 1,731 in the New York-New Jersey area, 185 in Philadelphia and 294 in the Baltimore-Washington area.

The Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Agriculture said in a joint announcement the action involving all soups, sauces and other canned food manufactured by Bon Vivant Soups Inc., of Newark, N.J., was precipitated by the finding of what was termed an unacceptable number of defective cans.

Federal officials emphasized that deformed or leaking cans indicate "inappropriate processing of food" but not necessarily harmful contamination such as with botulin toxin.

Federal inspectors are continuing their hunt for over 2,000 unaccounted-for Bon Vivant vichyssoise cans with the code number V-141-USA 71. Tests have confirmed poisonous botulin toxin in five cans of the soup.

"We hope that the botulism problem is confined to the one code of the one product," said Dr. Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of food and drugs. "This is all we have found to date.

"Nonetheless, we are finding too many defective cans in too many samples of the company's other products," he continued.

"We, therefore, have no choice but to remove all production from the market until all questions of contamination and processing defects have been resolved."

The FDA said the unaccounted-for cans of suspect Bon Vivant vichyssoise include 1,731 in the New York-New Jersey area, 185 in Philadelphia and 294 in the Baltimore-Washington area.

Baby Found Abandoned At Hastings

. . . In Parking Lot

Hastings (UPI) — A three-day-old infant girl was found abandoned early Wednesday afternoon in a car in the parking lot of the City National Bank of Hastings.

The baby was taken to Mary Lanning Hospital where officials described her condition as "very good, but hungry." A note attached to the baby said, "My name is Angela Dawn. I was born July 4, 1971. Please take good care of me while my mommy and daddy are gone."

The baby was discovered during the heat of the day, about 1:45 p.m. by bank employe Dick Gilbert, who said he was walking in the lot when he heard the baby's cries.

He and an employe of another nearby business searched the cars in the parking lot and found the baby lying red-faced and screaming on the back seat of a car owned by Sam Hernandez, manager of Kings Food Host in the city.

In Hospital Garments

Hernandez said the youngster was still wrapped in hospital garments, and had a packet of items given new mothers when they are released from the hospital lying beside her.

Hernandez, who recently became a father, expressed wonder at people who would leave a baby abandoned. "I'd certainly like to have her for my own," he said.

Records at Mary Lanning Hospital show no baby was born in Hastings on the 4th, and a check was being made to determine if the infant might have been born in another area hospital.

Adams County Attorney William Connolly said authorities have no clues to the identity of the baby or her parents, and the investigation was continuing. Connolly said it was a criminal offense for a baby to be abandoned."

Concern Over Wheat Streak Mosaic Told

University of Nebraska plant pathologists are concerned over the possible spread of wheat streak mosaic, a wheat disease caused by a virus carried by a tiny insect called the wheat curl mite.

The virus is carried by the mite from the present crop to volunteer wheat and from the volunteer wheat to the new crop as it emerges in the fall, according to Dr. John Weihing, Superintendent-director of the Scotts Bluff Experiment Station.

The disease can occur anywhere in the state, he said. However, recent hail damage in western Nebraska will likely cause an early crop of volunteer wheat and if the disease is bad enough it can destroy the entire crop, according to Weihing.

A reporting system has been set up to watch the disease.

Farmers suspecting they may have the disease are urged to contact their county agents who will in turn contact Dr. Eric Kerr, plant pathologist at the Scotts Bluff Station.

Kerr will examine the plants and advise if destruction of the volunteer wheat is necessary.

The farmers should check with their county agents before destroying the volunteer wheat because of the extra cost of working the field which may be unnecessary, advises Weihing.

Chadron Pilot, Passenger Hurt In Iowa Mishap

Knoxville, Iowa (AP) — Two persons were injured Wednesday when a light plane struck a small hill just south of the Knoxville airport and spun into a grove of trees.

Marion County Sheriff Lee Shives said the pilot of the aircraft, James Medearis, 31, of Chadron, Neb., told him the plane was bound from Chadron to Iowa City and was making a landing at Knoxville when the mishap occurred.

Medearis suffered a cut eye. A passenger, James T. Bently, 30, of Iowa City received head cuts and a broken cheek bone. Both were treated at a Knoxville hospital.

The sheriff quoted Medearis as saying he missed the approach to the runway, and when he tried to correct his course the engine failed.

The "Dream Dress" Lady

Mrs. Harry Johnson views a few of the many hundreds of wedding gowns and veils she has sewn over the past twenty years.

By GAIL HERSTEAD

Although Mrs. Harry Johnson of Pleasant Dale never has had a sewing lesson in her life, her original creations have graced church aisles and drawn tears from many a mother for over 20 years.

The procession of events began in 1950 when Mrs. Johnson's eldest daughter was married The pert farm wife, implementing sewing advice from her mother during the years, turned out gowns for the entire female contingent in the bridal party and drew compliments. Before long, when friends of Mrs. Johnson's daughters foresaw a wedding date in the future, they also envisioned the dress of their dreams and took their ideas to Mrs. Johnson.

Thus, visiting the "wedding lady" in the white two-story house became a tradition among the engageables and the word was spread.

Now wedding clippings of "her girls" from newspapers across the state and outstate fill one wall of a roomy sewing room that glitters and gleams of ceremonies to come. Stately white dresses in various stages of completion accompanied by sweeping veils adorn another wall and far outshine a black sewing machine that fills one corner of the wedding room.

In this very room, bubbly girls unveil pictures from the latest bridal magazine or self-drawings of special gowns — one which each girl considers the most beautiful dress in the world. According to the exclusive seamstress, most brides-to-be favor an A-line gown with an attached train of organza accented by Venice or Chantilly lace. The popular style includes an Empire bodice with the Bishop or puff sleeve.

Mrs. Johnson views the designated photograph or sketch and in turn, pencils in her own illustrations of the dress with front and back views. Then the worn measuring tape comes out and she carefully measures and records neck, shoulder, bust, waist, sleeve, hip, train, and shoulder to hem dimensions in an overflowing black notebook. Once the measurements are complete, the motherly woman quickly computes the fabric yardage, which usually totals seven yards of lining and an equal amount of outer material.

The order is complete and Mrs. Johnson — better known as Hazel, has work to do. Rather than stitching by ear, she sews by eyeing the magazine picture or drawing. The busy woman admitted she never has used a stock pattern, instead she originates a basic pattern with bits and pieces from the LINCOLN STAR newspaper!

"I believe in a comfortable gown," the demanding sewer emphasized, so naturally several fittings are arranged with the girls. At these meetings, brides-to-be get the first glance of themselves as a bride — which may be a jolt to some because it brings the stark realization that they are actually getting married. The reality of the event to the girl admiring her dress in the mirror, automatically jars a following image of herself floating down the aisle in her magic dress. Meanwhile Hazel checks the fit of their "magic gown" across the chest, bust, shoulders, from the shoulder to the bust, under the bust to the floor, about the waist, armhole, and from the shoulder cap to the wrist.

Gradually the wedding dress takes on a personality with the finishing touches. "Hand touches are what makes the dress especially nice," Mrs. Johnson confessed. All inside work, the neckline, waist, applique, lining, beading, and buttons — sometimes numbering up to sixty — require handwork. The wedding lady suggests that do-it-yourselfers pin on the applique or beaded design before hand stitching permanently. It is also nicer to use nylon thread when applying your applique or beaded trim, she added.

With the final stitch and knot, the wedding gown — and matching veil are finished sewing-wise. But as any seamstress worth her threads knows, the completed dress has a date with the iron. Mrs. Johnson sets her iron at a very mild temperature and proceeds to lightly press the frock from the inside out.

When the anxious bride-to-be arrives to pick up the dress of her dreams, the perfective seamstress offers some down-to-earth advice on caring for the treasured gown. Her instructions involve removing the gown from its protective covering and hanging it, with the train spread over a chair, in a room by itself.

Amidst the wedding bustle, Mrs. Johnson admitted her best advice to a girl — or mother who wants to make the bridal gown . . . "start early!"

For openers vacations and parties are especially in vogue, and then we have news of a Canadian Dominion Day celebration that precedes our Independence Day by three days!

When suburban servicement receive the coveted 30-day leave it means seeing their families and catching up on the news.

Happy Hollow Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Swanda and their children, Lauri, Jack, Joe, and Jaimie Lou, welcomed their son and brother-in-law, Captain Lyle Street, back from Vietnam in mid-June for his thirty-day leave. Not about to be left out of the big welcome was Captain Street's family, Mrs. Lyle Street, Sean, and the "new" seven-month old daughter, Keira.

The Army helicopter pilot spent the Fourth of July weekend with his family on a mini camping trip at Lake Pawnee just outside Lincoln.

Come next week, the Lincoln based family will pick up stakes and move to Fort Knox, Ky.

While we were all looking forward to the celebration of our Independence Day on July 4, Canadians already had celebrated their Dominion Day, which falls on July 1. But, Dominion Day was not foresaken in our Wellington Greens suburbia area.

On Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Thornton-Trump, who moved to Lincoln last summer from Toronto, celebrated not only Dominion Day, but the arrival of some very special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Sleigh and their four children, Ted, Diana, Debby and Robbie.

The Sleigh family were friends of the Thornton-Trumps in Toronto, and their visit to Lincoln is in the way of a pleasurable detour en route to Vancouver, British Columbia. The family plans to stay in the city for four days.

Their visit to the Thornton-Trumps is something of a turnabout, since Mr. and Mrs. Thornton-Trump, and their daughter, Anne, recently returned from a two-week visit to their former hometown of Toronto. During their visit they spent part of the time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sleigh and some of the time at the home of their daughter, Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sattler recently returned to their Lincoln Heights home from a two-week fishing — and visiting — trip to Wisconsin and Michigan.

A one-week guided trip in Michigan was undertaken by Mr. Sattler and his brothers, Wilbur Sattler and his son, Dennis, of Zion, Ill.; and Jerry Sattler of Decatur, Ill. — and then Mr. and Mrs. Sattler spent the second week fishing at a resort in Wisconsin. All together they got enough fish for one good fish fry!

While on their vacation, the suburban couple attended a family reunion in Zion, Ill.; and Jerry Stattler of Decatur, Ill. — Mrs. Amelia Sattler — and they paid a visit to a brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Greidanous who reside in Wisconsin.

Speaking of vacations and lakes, we have news this morning of another suburban family that has returned from a vacation-business trip to Lake Okoboji in Iowa.

The travelers are Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bott of Kimballcrest, and their daughter Lisa Dawn. The Botts were joined on their journey by Mr. and Mrs. Monte Marker and their children.

Despite the early morning rains, the daytime hours provided sunny skies — just right for swimming, golfing, — miniature for the children and regular for the adults — weiner roasts, watermelon feeds, trips to the amusement park, and the special Fourth of July luau, complete with two barbecued pigs and fireworks.

The two Lincoln families departed on Thursday July 1, and returned late Monday, July 5.

What better way to pass a hot, sultry, July afternoon than in an air-conditioned house — and with some very special friends, particularly if those friends just happen to be bridge players!

That's just what passed through Mrs. Howard Mattison's mind when she decided that it was time her friends — and former neighbors — gather at her Kimberly Heights home for an afternoon of bidding and trumping of aces.

The bridge party was Wednesday afternoon — and the guests for dessert and coffee, as well as bridge, included Mrs. Neil Gingery, Mrs. John Hicks, Mrs. Don Lohrberg, Mrs. Russell Nelson, Mrs. Dale Stephens, Mrs. Roy Yaley, and Mrs. Floyd Wernimont.

The "Dream Dress" Lady

Mrs. Harry Johnson views a few of the many hundreds of wedding gowns and veils she has sewn over the past twenty years.

By GAIL HERSTEAD

Although Mrs. Harry Johnson of Pleasant Dale never has had a sewing lesson in her life, her original creations have graced church aisles and drawn tears from many a mother for over 20 years.

The procession of events began in 1950 when Mrs. Johnson's eldest daughter was married. The pert farm wife, implementing sewing advice from her mother during the years, turned out gowns for the entire female contingent in the bridal party and drew compliments. Before long, when friends of Mrs. Johnson's daughters foresaw a wedding date in the future, they also envisioned the dress of their dreams and took their ideas to Mrs. Johnson.

Thus, visiting the "wedding lady" in the white two-story house became a tradition among the engageables and the word was spread.

Now wedding clippings of "her girls" from newspapers across the state and outstate fill one wall of a roomy sewing room that glitters and gleams of ceremonies to come. Stately white dresses in various stages of completion accompanied by sweeping veils adorn another wall and far outshine a black sewing machine that fills one corner of the wedding room.

In this very room, bubbly girls unveil pictures from the latest bridal magazine or self-drawings of special gowns — one which each girl considers the most beautiful dress in the world. According to the exclusive seamstress, most brides-to-be favor an A-line gown with an attached train of organza accented by Venice or Chantilly lace. The popular style includes an Empire bodice with the Bishop or puff sleeve.

Mrs. Johnson views the designated photograph or sketch and in turn, pencils in her own illustrations of the dress with front and back views. Then the worn measuring tape comes out and she carefully measures and records neck, shoulder, bust, waist, sleeve, hip, train, and shoulder to hem dimensions in an overflowing black notebook. Once the measurements are complete, the motherly woman quickly computes the fabric yardage, which usually totals seven yards of lining and an equal amount of outer material.

The order is complete and Mrs. Johnson — better known as Hazel, has work to do. Rather than stitching by ear, she sews by eyeing the magazine picture or drawing. The busy woman admitted she never has used a stock pattern, instead she originates a basic pattern with bits and pieces from the LINCOLN STAR newspaper!

"I believe in a comfortable gown," the demanding sewer emphasized, so naturally several fittings are arranged with the girls. At these meetings, brides-to-be get the first glance of themselves as a bride — which may be a jolt to some because it brings the stark realization that they are actually getting married. The reality of the event to the girl admiring her dress in the mirror, automatically jars a following image of herself floating down the aisle in her magic dress. Meanwhile Hazel checks the fit of their "magic gown" across the chest, bust, shoulders, from the shoulder to the bust, under the bust to the floor, about the waist, armhole, and from the shoulder cap to the wrist.

Gradually the wedding dress takes on a personality with the finishing touches. "Hand touches are what makes the dress especially nice," Mrs. Johnson confessed. All inside work, the neckline, waist, applique, lining, beading, and buttons — sometimes numbering up to sixty — require handwork. The wedding lady suggests that do-it-yourselfers pin on the applique or beaded design before hand stitching permanently. It is also nicer to use nylon thread when applying your applique or beaded trim, she added.

With the final stitch and knot, the wedding gown — and matching veil are finished sewing-wise. But as any seamstress worth her threads knows, the completed dress has a date with the iron. Mrs. Johnson sets her iron at a very mild temperature and proceeds to lightly press the frock from the inside out.

When the anxious bride-to-be arrives to pick up the dress of her dreams, the perfective seamstress offers some down-to-earth advice on caring for the treasured gown. Her instructions involve removing the gown from its protective covering and hanging it, with the train spread over a chair, in a room by itself.

Amidst the wedding bustle, Mrs. Johnson admitted her best advice to a girl — or mother who wants to make the bridal gown . . . "start early!"

BOOKS — "The Information Machines"

BY INDIRA SINGH

From papyrus to satellites; the communication field has evolved at such a fast pace that men have yet been unable to assess the impact the media has had on them. Fifteen minutes after John F. Kennedy was shot, 44 percent of the American public knew it, and 90 per cent of the population had learned it within an hour. Since that event, communication has moved even closer, and is now at the point of almost being instantaneous.

Ben H. Bagdikian's "The Information Machines" is about communication, the collecting and delivery of information (through newspapers, television and radio) and how our lives can and will be changed by the way we get out news tomorrow. An assistant editor of the "Washington Post," Bagdikian spent two years with RAND, a corporation made up of communication experts, who keep a tab on the econmics of the newspapers: on the news patterns of various television and radio stations, and who eventually make the top decisions about future communication changes.

Even though the sound of his name lends easily to science-fiction "scary writing", Bagdikian is very careful about how he lays out the facts about communication changes. On the popular question of whether the print is dying, he rejects "a naive dogma of the manifest destiny of multisensory media, noting that the 380 per cent increase in new book titles between 1950 and 1967 and a surprising improvement in reading and conceptualizing performances by children tested in 1965 compared with a similar group in 1940. It appears that the generation accused of devoting themselves to Bugs Bunny and rock music, "may be the most skillful readers in history, possessing an unprecedented ability to scan and reject."

"Scan and reject" . . . that's where the catch lies. For the real threat to the future of print, as Bagdikian notes, is not "a new cult of sensory salvation" but a rather poetic fact that printed information reaches its upper limits of usefulness by its own abundance. In daily life one must reject and wade through a tremendous amont of visual, printed, oral, and emotional data. However, Bagdikian believes that this will eventually enable us to produce heightened and more selectively penetrating alertness.

It is obvious that the author is optimistic about the future, as the most significant point brought out in the book is that the long range impact of the television cable is not the images it will bring into the homes, but how it will open up a potential for outward communication. Instead of being dazed in front of a soap opera, we will be able to punch-out buttons demanding more news than we now request, or voice our opinions on a rainy election day.

As interesting as this book might be, Bagdikian has run the risk of McLuhan-izing the media. Like the pundit of the last decade, he is at instances overly poetic, or too lofty.

At a time when the media is under such terrific fire, it is well to remember that communications is the major contribution of this century. At the same time it should also be emphasized, that if inventions of communication outrun our understanding, then mankind faces an inevitable loss of identity.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moody of Bozeman, Mont., announce the arrival of a daughter, Lisa Kay, on Tuesday, June 22. The young lady's mother is the former Barbara Braasch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Braasch, and a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Towne Club. Mr. Moody also was graduated from the University of Nebraska and now is working toward his doctorate at Montana State College. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Jose Moody of Dallas, Tex.

NEWS ALL AROUND TOWN

The other day we did some specializing, newswise, on 'comings' — which had to do with guests. This morning we have another variety of 'coming' — a homeowner — Mrs. C. Ned Cadwallader — Mrs. Cadwallader returned to Lincoln a few days ago after a stay of five weeks on the West coast. Her first stop was in Oakland, Calif., where she was the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. James Cadwallader. From Oakland Dr. and Mrs. Cadwallader and their guest drove down the coast to Santa Barbara where they attended the prenuptial dinner and the wedding of a relative — John Weaver, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald "Jack" Weaver.

From Santa Barbara to Los Angeles where Mrs. Cadwallader spent some time as the house guest of another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cadwallader. It was there that Mrs. Cadwaller had her first introduction to something in the way of pools — Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader had a brand new one — a Jacuzzi which, we are told, is something like a spa. From Los Angeles Mrs. Cadwallader flew to Seattle where she was the guest of some old friends who are former Lincoln residents.

We took another look at our guest book just now, and we're happy we did. We found that two more names have been added — those of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Frederick of Honolulu, Hawaii. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick are spending a few days in Lincoln visiting members of Mr. Frederick's family — his mother, Mrs. H. L. Tripp — and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gadd.

Before coming to Lincoln Mr. and Mrs. Frederick vacationed on the west coast, and from here will go east where they will do some browsing around in the New England states.

We can't put Amy Elizabeth Pavelka in either the guest or homecomer category but we can say that she arrived on Wednesday, July 7. The young lady is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Pavelka, and her mother is the former Dianne Knutson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Knutson. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pavelka.

We've had 'comers' and 'homecomers', so now we're going to add newcomers — They are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rasmussen and their three children — daughters, Terry, who is 17 and Robin, who already has celebrated her 14th birthday, and son Tommy, who is 12 years old. Mr. Rasmussen, who purchased the Korsmeyer Co., has been in Lincoln since last November, and the remainder of the family arrived from their former home in Marshalltown, Iowa, on June 15.

Now every member of the family is settled in the new home at 3910 So. 27th St.

Pointers For Women Drivers

Half of the licensed car drivers in the nation are women, according to Mrs. Charlotte Montgomery. Mrs. Montgomery, whose column "Speaker for the House" appears in Good Housekeeping magazine, and who is vice-president of Women of the National Safety Council, offers 8 safety pointers which she considers of special importance to women drivers —

1. Be courteous. Accidents would be cut in half if we all practiced good manners.
2. Always use your safety belt.
3. If a tire blows out, hold firmly to the wheel to prevent swerving into traffic, let the car slow down naturally with your foot off the brake and then ease off the road.
4. Insist that children behave.
5. Always put your parking brake on firmly; if you are out of the car and it begins to roll, don't try to stop it.
6. Be aware that carbon monoxide is deadly, so never run your car in a closed garage and always drive with a crack of window open.
7. Put your full headlights on at dusk and in rain and fog, so others can see you.
8. Keep spaces around your car at all times — don't tailgate.

BY INDIRA SINGH

From papyrus to satellites; the communication field has evolved at such a fast pace that men have yet been unable to assess the impact the media has had on them. Fifteen minutes after John F. Kennedy was shot, 44 percent of the American public knew it, and 90 per cent of the population had learned it within an hour. Since that event, communication has moved even closer, and is now at the point of almost being instantaneous.

Ben H. Bagdikian's "The Information Machines" is about communication, the collecting and delivery of information (through newspapers, television and radio) and how our lives can and will be changed by the way we get out news tomorrow. An assistant editor of the "Washington Post," Bagdikian spent two years with RAND, a corporation made up of communication experts, who keep a tab on the econmics of the newspapers: on the news patterns of various television and radio stations, and who eventually make the top decisions about future communication changes.

Even though the sound of his name lends easily to science-fiction "scary writing", Bagdikian is very careful about how he lays out the facts about communication changes. On the popular question of whether the print is dying, he rejects "a naive dogma of the manifest destiny of multisensory media, noting that the 380 per cent increase in new book titles between 1950 and 1967 and a surprising improvement in reading and conceptualizing performances by children tested in 1965 compared with a similar group in 1940. It appears that the generation accused of devoting themselves to Bugs Bunny and rock music, "may be the most skillful readers in history, possessing an unprecedented ability to scan and reject."

"Scan and reject" . . . that's where the catch lies. For the real threat to the future of print, as Bagdikian notes, is not "a new cult of sensory salvation" but a rather poetic fact that printed information reaches its upper limits of usefulness by its own abundance. In daily life one must reject and wade through a tremendous amont of visual, printed, oral, and emotional data. However, Bagdikian believes that this will eventually enable us to produce heightened and more selectively penetrating alertness.

It is obvious that the author is optimistic about the future, as the most significant point brought out in the book is that the long range impact of the television cable is not the images it will bring into the homes, but how it will open up a potential for outward communication. Instead of being dazed in front of a soap opera, we will be able to punch-out buttons demanding more news than we now request, or voice our opinions on a rainy election day.

As interesting as this book might be, Bagdikian has run the risk of McLuhan-izing the media. Like the pundit of the last decade, he is at instances overly poetic, or too lofty.

At a time when the media is under such terrific fire, it is well to remember that communications is the major contribution of this century. At the same time it should also be emphasized, that if inventions of communication outrun our understanding, then mankind faces an inevitable loss of identity.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moody of Bozeman, Mont., announce the arrival of a daughter, Lisa Kay, on Tuesday, June 22. The young lady's mother is the former Barbara Braasch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Braasch, and a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Towne Club. Mr. Moody also was graduated from the University of Nebraska and now is working toward his doctorate at Montana State College. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Jose Moody of Dallas. Tex.

NEWS ALL AROUND TOWN

The other day we did some specializing, newswise, on 'comings' — which had to do with guests. This morning we have another variety of 'coming' — a homeowner — Mrs. C. Ned Cadwallader — Mrs. Cadwallader returned to Lincoln a few days ago after a stay of five weeks on the West coast. Her first stop was in Oakland, Calif., where she was the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. James Cadwallader. From Oakland Dr. and Mrs. Cadwallader and their guest drove down the coast to Santa Barbara where they attended the prenuptial dinner and the wedding of a relative — John Weaver, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald "Jack" Weaver.

From Santa Barbara to Los Angeles where Mrs. Cadwallader spent some time as the house guest of another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cadwallader. It was there that Mrs. Cadwaller had her first introduction to something in the way of pools — Mr. and Mrs. Cadwallader had a brand new one — a Jacuzzi which, we are told, is something like a spa. From Los Angeles Mrs. Cadwallader flew to Seattle where she was the guest of some old friends who are former Lincoln residents.

We took another look at our guest book just now, and we're happy we did. We found that two more names have been added — those of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Frederick of Honolulu, Hawaii. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick are spending a few days in Lincoln visiting members of Mr. Frederick's family — his mother, Mrs. H. L. Tripp — and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gadd.

Before coming to Lincoln Mr. and Mrs. Frederick vacationed on the west coast, and from here will go east where they will do some browsing around in the New England states.

We can't put Amy Elizabeth Pavelka in either the guest or homecomer category but we can say that she arrived on Wednesday, July 7. The young lady is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Pavelka, and her mother is the former Dianne Knutson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Knutson. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pavelka.

We've had 'comers' and 'homecomers', so now we're going to add newcomers — They are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rasmussen and their three children — daughters, Terry, who is 17 and Robin, who already has celebrated her 14th birthday, and son Tommy, who is 12 years old. Mr. Rasmussen, who purchased the Korsmeyer Co., has been in Lincoln since last November, and the remainder of the family arrived from their former home in Marshalltown, Iowa, on June 15.

Now every member of the family is settled in the new home at 3910 So. 27th St.

Pointers For Women Drivers

Half of the licensed car drivers in the nation are women, according to Mrs. Charlotte Montgomery. Mrs. Montgomery, whose column "Speaker for the House" appears in Good Housekeeping magazine, and who is vice-president of Women of the National Safety Council, offers 8 safety pointers which she considers of special importance to women drivers —

1. Be courteous. Accidents would be cut in half if we all practiced good manners.
2. Always use your safety belt.
3. If a tire blows out, hold firmly to the wheel to prevent swerving into traffic, let the car slow down naturally with your foot off the brake and then ease off the road.
4. Insist that children behave.
5. Always put your parking brake on firmly; if you are out of the car and it begins to roll, don't try to stop it.
6. Be aware that carbon monoxide is deadly, so never run your car in a closed garage and always drive with a crack of window open.
7. Put your full headlights on at dusk and in rain and fog, so others can see you.
8. Keep spaces around your car at all times — don't tailgate.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead — six of hearts.

A declarer must feel his way in many hands; he cannot know at the start exactly how the unseen cards are divided. He generally begins by making a few assumptions, based primarily on the bidding or play to date even though he cannot be entirely sure of his ground.

As the play progresses, declarer will often revise his initial estimate of the situation as new or unexpected developments shed additional light on the true composition of the adverse hands.

Observe South's play in this deal where West led a heart. Declarer went up with the ace and tried a spade finesse which lost to the king. At this point West returned the nine of diamonds.

It was only trick three, yet South already knew all he needed to know about the opponents' hands. It was certainly reasonable to assume that West had led a singleton heart, for he would surely have played another heart at this point had he had one.

It was likewise reasonable to assume that West did not have the queen of diamonds; he would scarcely have returned a diamond if he had the queen.

Declarer therefore went up with the ace (had he played the jack he would have gone down). He then finessed the queen of clubs, cashed the ace, and ruffed a club.

Now came three rounds of trumps on which he discarded a heart from dummy as East was forced to come down to the K-Q of hearts and Q-10 of diamonds.

South then administered the coup de grace by exiting with a heart. After cashing two heart tricks East was obliged to concede the contract by leading away from the queen of diamonds.

Abby: unhappy misunderstanding on both sides

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why do people give money to reciprocate a kindness? It spoils everything.

Yesterday a friend gave me a check for $10 for a small kindness I showed her. (I picked up her mail and brought it to her at the hospital for three weeks.) Abby, I was terribly hurt and didn't want to accept money for something which I did out of the kindness of my heart, so I tore up the check in front of her.

She looked as though I had struck her and tears came to her eyes. I wanted to die. Was I wrong?

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: Yes. To destroy something publicly shows contempt for it. You should have either returned the check or destroyed it privately. People give money to reciprocate a kindness because either they are unable to shop for a gift or they don't know what to buy.

Your friend wanted to reward you for your kindness. You wanted no reward. Unfortunately, you misunderstood each other.

DEAR ABBY: I need help. My husband is 91, and for the last two years Arnold has no desire for sex, and I am only 73 and I still need a man.

Arnold is a jealous person and he follows me everywhere so there is no chance of even meeting anyone else. Is there something the doctor can give him to pep him up a little? If that is hopeless, maybe the doctor can give me something to quiet me down. It is no good this way.

YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR YOUNG: It might be easier to quiet your desire than to rekindle Arnold's. Ask your doctor.

DEAR ABBY: When a guy is asked to be best man at a wedding, and it is decided that all the men in the wedding party should wear identical rented dinner jackets, who pays for the rental on the jackets?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: The men who wear them.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

House OKs Bill To Tighten Curbs On Mailing Of Sex-Oriented Material

Washington (AP) — Tight curbs on the mailing of sex-oriented material to homes — and an effort to modify the Supreme Court's obscenity definition by act of Congress — passed the House Wednesday 356 to 25.

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., objected the bill would turn Congress into a "super parent" and "throw down the gauntlet to the Supreme Court."

But backers, including Rep. Elwood Hillis, R-Ind., said it "will help slam the door in the face of smut peddlers in the United States."

The bill, sent to the Senate, would remove the Supreme Court's controversial test that obscenity must have no "social redeeming value."

In effect writing the rest of the Supreme Court's definition into law, the bill would define obscenity as "matter which has its predominant appeal to the prurient interest when considered as a whole by contemporary community standards."

Sexy books, films and other matter obscene under that definition would be automatically deemed "conclusively to be utterly without social importance.

"Any slight social value in such matter," the act reads, "shall be deemed outweighed by the social interest in order and morality."

The bill also would write into federal law a New York law which was upheld by the Supreme Court graphically defining "nudity, sexual conduct or sadomasochistic abuse" harmful to children though not necessarily to adults.

Mailing such material to any home with children under 17 would be prohibited unless specifically addressed to what the mailer believed to be an adult.

Conviction would carry a maximum $5,000 fine and five years in jail for the first offense and 10 years and $10,000 fine for the second offense.

A third section and definition would require all mail including "sexually oriented advertisements" dealing with explicit sex instruction such as sex instruction manuals — to carry a symbol on the outside identifying it as such.

Any adult could instruct his local post office not to deliver such mail to him.

This would be in addition to the present law under which postal patrons may have their names put on a national list of people to whom such matters may not be mailed.

Conference Still Reports Out No Draft Extension

Washington (AP) — Senate-House conferees failed again Wednesday to compromise a dispute over a war pullout amendment.

Another attempt will be made Monday to settle the argument which has held up passage of a two-year draft extension bill.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate conferees, and Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House conferees, told newsmen there is no unbreakable deadlock.

"I am quite hopeful we can settle this next week," Stennis said. Hebert said he is too.

The draft law expired on June 30, and the hang-up on the bill to extend it for two years is an amendment by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., calling for withdrawal of all U.S. forces in Indochina within nine months of enactment of the legislation contingent on the release of American prisoners of war.

The Mansfield amendment, approved by the Senate but rejected by House, is in the form of a Congressional declaration of policy but would not have the force of law.

Tempest Swirls Around Envoy

Kuwait (AP) — While Vice President Spiro T. Agnew sipped tea with the ruler of this oil-rich nation Wednesday, a tempest swirled around U.S. Ambassador John Walsh.

The English-language Kuwait Daily News quoted Walsh as telling a fellow ambassador that Agnew's trip to the Middle East, and an earlier one by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, were "merely intended to help the re-election" of President Nixon in 1972 by winning "the blessings of powerful Zionists in New York" and elsewhere with a pro-Israeli stand.

Walsh called the story "a fabrication" designed "to embarrass the vice president," the highest ranking U.S. official ever to visit this small desert state.

The Daily News article also said Walsh had threatened to resign because of alleged pro-Israeli bias in the U.S. State Department.

The 53-year-old diplomat said of the views imputed to him: "I never said them, I do not believe them and the entire story is a fabrication."

He conceded, however, that the story was "realistic" in portraying his views about the Arab people.

It quoted him as saying the Arabs are "a decent, hospitable, loving people, willingly selling their oil to the West with the aim of combatting communism, which conflicts with their ideologies, particularly their belief in God."

The West, particularly the United States, Walsh was quoted as stating, "is not aware of this fact, but is, on the contrary, stupidly siding with the Zionist state of Israel."

Despite Walsh's denial, Kuwaiti sources indicated the views in the article were consistent with those the ambassador has expressed in past private conversations. The publisher of the politically independent paper said after talking with the reporter that he stood by the story.

Festival License Canceled

Newport, R.I. (AP) — In the wake of the stormy ending of last week's Newport Jazz Festival, the City Council voted Wednesday night to cancel the license for a folk music festival set for July 16-18.

After the 5-2 vote to cancel, George Wein, promoter of the folk festival as well as the jazz festival, said he will not attempt to present the rock opera "Jesus Chrsit Superstar" which he had scheduled for July 24 in Newport.

The council voted to cancel the license despite a plea from Wein who said his folk festival would not draw the size or kind of a crowd which came to the jazz festival.

WHAT'S BEST TO TAKE FOR

Dull, Throbbing Pain Of Nervous Tension Headaches?

Anyone who suffers from tension headaches knows only too well how the throbbing pain can dull efficiency, play havoc with nerves and slow you down.

What's best to take? Clinical tests by doctors on over 500 patients who complained of tension headaches proved Anacin® relieves nervous tension headaches just as effectively as the expensive leading prescription. Yet Anacin needs no prescription and costs far less.

Here is other convincing evidence of the effectiveness of Anacin. A survey of over 1,600 specialists in internal medicine showed twice as many doctors said they would recommend the Anacin formula to relieve pain over that of the other leading extra-strength tablet. Yes, twice as many doctors prefer Anacin's formula.

You can trust Anacin to relieve headache pain in minutes. Then its nervous tension and painful pressure on nerves go, too. Anacin lets you do a better job. Lets you function better.

Despite its great strength, Anacin is not habit-forming. You can take it without getting an upset stomach. It makes good sense to take fast-acting, extra-strong Anacin Tablets.

House OKs Bill To Tighten Curbs On Mailing Of Sex-Oriented Material

Washington (AP) — Tight curbs on the mailing of sex-oriented material to homes — and an effort to modify the Supreme Court's obscenity definition by act of Congress — passed the House Wednesday 356 to 25.

Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., objected the bill would turn Congress into a "super parent" and "throw down the gauntlet to the Supreme Court."

But backers, including Rep. Elwood Hillis, R-Ind., said it "will help slam the door in the face of smut peddlers in the United States."

The bill, sent to the Senate, would remove the Supreme Court's controversial test that obscenity must have no "social redeeming value."

In effect writing the rest of the Supreme Court's definition into law, the bill would define obscenity as "matter which has its predominant appeal to the prurient interest when considered as a whole by contemporary community standards."

Sexy books, films and other matter obscene under that definition would be automatically deemed "conclusively to be utterly without social importance.

"Any slight social value in such matter," the act reads, "shall be deemed outweighed by the social interest in order and morality."

The bill also would write into federal law a New York law which was upheld by the Supreme Court graphically defining "nudity, sexual conduct or sadomasochistic abuse" harmful to children though not necessarily to adults.

Mailing such material to any home with children under 17 would be prohibited unless specifically addressed to what the mailer believed to be an adult.

Conviction would carry a maximum $5,000 fine and five years in jail for the first offense and 10 years and $10,000 fine for the second offense.

A third section and definition would require all mail including "sexually oriented advertisements" dealing with explicit sex instruction such as sex instruction manuals — to carry a symbol on the outside identifying it as such.

Any adult could instruct his local post office not to deliver such mail to him.

This would be in addition to the present law under which postal patrons may have their names put on a national list of people to whom such matters may not be mailed.

The New York Times

Washington — A high-ranking South Vietnamese general was named by a member of congress before a House foreign affairs subcommittee Wednesday as "one of the chief traffickers in heroin in Southeast Asia."

Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu, commander of the Second Army Corps, was named as a heroin trafficker by Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., during testimony on a proposed amendment to the foreign-aid extension bill. The amendment would cut off aid to any country that failed to deal effectively with illicit opium production and distribution.

Steele told the panel that since he submitted his recent report on illicit heroin trafficking and drug addiction among U.S. servicemen in Southeast Asia, "I have learned that South Vietnamese military officers continue to deal in large quantities of heroin and to transport it around South Vietnam in military aircraft and vehicles."

He added: "U.S. military authorities have provided Ambassador (Ellsworth) Bunker with hard intelligence that one of the chief traffickers is Gen. Ngo Dzu, the commander of Second Corps. Dzu is one of the staunchest military backers of President Thieu and one of the leading strongmen in the current Saigon government."

In Saigon, Steele said, "the government cracked down on street peddlers at our insistence, and that was easy."

"They have started to crack down on their customs people and it's had some effect," he went on. "But now we come to the top strongman — a general in South Vietnam — and I wonder just how serious the government will be about its crackdown.

"I don't say put him before a firing squad, but he must be stopped."

The 32-year-old Steele, a former agent of the Central Intelligence Agency, estimated in his congressional study report in May that 10 to 15% of the American servicemen in Indochina had become addicted to heroin. The report was based on investigations he made in the area with Rep. Morgan T. Murphy, D-Ill.

Zoning Board Defers Action On Legionnaire Club Request

The Board of Zoning Appeals Wednesday deferred action on the request of the Legionnaire Club at 5730 O St., for waiver of building line requirements on a proposed second-story addition.

The board unanimously agreed to request an opinion from the city legal department as to whether the body has jurisdiction over the requested waiver.

Miles Johnston, attorney for the club, told the board that a three-foot extension beyond the building line is needed for the pylons required for support of the second-story addition.

"There isn't sufficient footings in the present building to support the addition," he said.

City Planning Director Douglas Brogden suggested the waiver for other than a temporary structure would set a precedent for encroachments on the 120-foot right-of-way for O Street east from 27th.

In other action, the board approved the request of Oscar Powell for waiver of rear yard requirements at 4200 So. 43rd to permit construction of a new driveway and canopy.

Hearing was postponed on the request of the Country Club of Lincoln for waiver to permit construction of an "eighth hole tee house" near Woodsdale Blvd.

Association For Retarded Youth Plans Meetings

The Nebraska Association for Retarded Children has announced six public meetings will be held across the state to discuss recent and future state legislation, it was reported Wednesday.

Association Director John Foley said the meetings would center on legislation passed by the 1971 Unicameral relating to mental retardation and funding of educational programs for the mentally handicapped.

Also up for discussion, he said, would be possible proposals for consideration by the 1972 Legislature when it meets in January.

The meetings are scheduled for Lincoln, July 13; Omaha, July 15; Norfolk, July 20; Kearney, July 27; North Platte, July 28; and Gering, July 29.

Rain, Humidity Delaying Harvest In Holdrege Area

Holdrege (UPI) — Allen Woods, manager of the area wheat harvest office here, said Wednesday, harvesting will not be completed until the end of this week or early next week.

Woods said rain and high humidity are slowing the harvesting down, but the harvest continues to stand well.

Harvesting is 75-80% complete in the Alma, area and 40% complete in the Holdrege area, Woods said.

Woods said yields are averaging 40-60 bushels per acre with a report from the Holdrege Co-op Grain Elevator that one field yielded 80 bushels per acre.

Exon's Registration Ideas For Young Voters Criticized

Grand Island (AP) — The Nebraska Republican state chairman charged Wednesday that Democratic Gov. J. James Exon "is losing his perspective" in suggestions to facilitate registration of young voters.

"I personally think the 18-year-old vote is one of the great things which has happened to this country and I personally welcome it," said Milan Bish, Grand Island businessman.

But, he added that the governor apparently had not researched registration laws in suggesting that high school principals be deputized to register young voters, and possibly the same arrangement can be made on college campuses.

Bish called the mechanics of such a move impractical.

Cites Law

He said the law requires that a representative of both parties be present in an office where registration is made, that the location must be designated and announced by legal notice, and the person doing the registering must be schooled and deputized by the county clerk and the office must be open to register any one.

"The 18-year-old is a young adult," Bish noted. "He displayed his maturity when he got his driver's license and when he registered for the draft. Voter registration should be made accessible, but the young voters should have the experience of registering to vote just like every one else does."

York College's Loan Approved

A federal loan of $234,000 to York College for construction of a new physical education building has been approved by the U.S. Office of Education, the office of Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., announced Wednesday.

The loan will supplement a $120,430 federal grant announced last week.

Kissing Bandit Strikes

Detroit (UPI) — A debonair bandit looted two cash registers and the wallets of four customers at the Golden Greek Bar and then planted a kiss on the lips of barmaid Agnes Richardson. "See, I never meant to hurt you," he said.

State Aeronautics Unit Receives Requests

The Nebraska Aeronautics Administration Wednesday tackled the problem of dispersing its funds totaling approximately $650,000 in the face of requests totaling $1,259,040 from the airport authorities of 14 cities.

The commission took the requests under advisement and will make its decision at its July 16 meeting in Lincoln.

The total estimated project costs including local, state and federal funds come to $6,229,500 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1972.

Commission member John T. Harris of McCook noted that the state does not have the funds to match all the requests for state aid.

"Before there has always been plenty of money for the projects; however, this year there just isn't. I think a partial reason for the greater number of requests this year is the fact that the runways of some of the older airports are in need of major resurfacing," he said.

State airport engineer Walter J. Kreuscher stated that in this belt-tightening process that each request is going to be thoroughly studied to determine where the limited state funds should go.

Kreuscher indicated that in view of the limited budget such "nonessential items as access roads and fencing" are the items that will be cut from the requests.

The importance of maintaining quality airports in the smaller towns in the western part of the state received attention from several delegations. The representatives from Rushville noted that if smaller towns are going to be able to keep and attract businesses, they are going to need all-weather airports.

"Businesses are leaving smaller cities due to the need for air facilities," a representative from Rushville said.

The largest request was Lincoln's for $1,920,000 of which $384,000 would be state money with $960,000 coming from the FAA and the remainder put up by the city.

This money would go for new high speed taxi-ways and additional aprons.

Omaha's request for improvements on Eppley Field includes land acquisition, moving the Missouri River levee, purchase of a fire rescue vehicle which is necessary before the FAA will allow the large 747's and DC-10's land there and a flight service station.

The total bill for Omaha's project comes to $1,145,000. This figure breaks down into $572,500 from the federal government, $229,000 from the state and $343,500 from Omaha funds.

Other cities' projects include: Beatrice, $443,600; Chappell, $6,000; Columbus, $416,600; Falls City, $85,000; Grand Island, $175,000; Grant, $190,000; North Platte, $66,000 and $59,700 (two projects); Millard, $211,000; Norfolk, $529,600; Rushville, $121,000; Seward, $471,000; and Superior, $164,000.

Commuter Train Jumps Tracks

New York (AP) — Two cars jumped the tracks as a Penn Central commuter train with an estimated 600 suburbanites aboard entered Grand Central Terminal Wednesday. One passenger was killed. At least 17 others were reported injured.

One of the derailed cars rammed a concrete abutment, and its top was heared off. Seats were ripped apart and windows smashed. After being stopped several times by a red light, the train was said at the time of the accident to be proceeding against a yellow caution light.

State Aeronautics Unit Receives Requests

The Nebraska Aeronautics Administration Wednesday tackled the problem of dispersing its funds totaling approximately $650,000 in the face of requests totaling $1,259,040 from the airport authorities of 14 cities.

The commission took the requests under advisement and will make its decision at its July 16 meeting in Lincoln.

The total estimated project costs including local, state and federal funds come to $6,229,500 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1972.

Commission member John T. Harris of McCook noted that the state does not have the funds to match all the requests for state aid.

"Before there has always been plenty of money for the projects; however, this year there just isn't. I think a partial reason for the greater number of requests this year is the fact that the runways of some of the older airports are in need of major resurfacing," he said.

State airport engineer Walter J. Kreuscher stated that in this belt-tightening process that each request is going to be thoroughly studied to determine where the limited state funds should go.

Kreuscher indicated that in view of the limited budget such "nonessential items as access roads and fencing" are the items that will be cut from the requests.

The importance of maintaining quality airports in the smaller towns in the western part of the state received attention from several delegations. The representatives from Rushville noted that if smaller towns are going to be able to keep and attract businesses, they are going to need all-weather airports.

"Businesses are leaving smaller cities due to the need for air facilities," a representative from Rushville said.

The largest request was Lincoln's for $1,920,000 of which $384,000 would be state money with $960,000 coming from the FAA and the remainder put up by the city.

This money would go for new high speed taxi-ways and additional aprons.

Omaha's request for improvements on Eppley Field includes land acquisition, moving the Missouri River levee, purchase of a fire rescue vehicle which is necessary before the FAA will allow the large 747's and DC-10's land there and a flight service station.

The total bill for Omaha's project comes to $1,145,000. This figure breaks down into $572,500 from the federal government, $229,000 from the state and $343,500 from Omaha funds.

Other cities' projects include: Beatrice, $443,600; Chappell, $6,000; Columbus, $416,600; Falls City, $85,000; Grand Island, $175,000; Grant, $190,000; North Platte, $66,000 and $59,700 (two projects); Millard, $211,000; Norfolk, $529,600; Rushville, $121,000; Seward, $471,000; and Superior, $164,000.

Commuter Train Jumps Tracks

New York (AP) — Two cars jumped the tracks as a Penn Central commuter train with an estimated 600 suburbanites aboard entered Grand Central Terminal Wednesday. One passenger was killed. At least 17 others were reported injured.

One of the derailed cars rammed a concrete abutment, and its top was heared off. Seats were ripped apart and windows smashed. After being stopped several times by a red light, the train was said at the time of the accident to be proceeding against a yellow caution light.

U.S. Reassures Pakistan Of Arms Noninterference

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP) — The U.S. government has assured Pakistan it will not interfere with four or five more shiploads of ammunition and military spare parts still due here from the United States, Foreign ministry sources reported Wednesday.

In New Delhi, the Indian government asked the United States to halt all military and economic aid to Pakistan as a way to end civil strife in East Pakistan and to insure the return of seven million Pakistani refuges now in India, official Indian informants reported.

They had no immediate comment on the reported U.S. assurances to the Pakistanis.

These developments came on the eve of a visit to Pakistan by Henry A. Kissinger, foreign affairs adviser to President Nixon.

Kissinger will come from New Delhi where his arrival Tuesday was marked by anti-American demonstrations against two shipnents of ammunition and spare parts already sent from the United States.

Under Existing Licenses

According to Foreign Ministry sources the United States has ruled it will not issue new licenses to Pakistan but will permit Pakistan to continue shipments of material purchased under existing licenses.

The source said the parts and ammunition were purchased in commercial deals but did not disclose the terms.

A U.S. Embassy source said Pakistani purchases of spare parts and ammunition amounted to about $20 million annually and had ben going on regularly since 1967 when the United States partially lifted a ban on sales of military equipment imposed during the 1965 war between India and Pakistan.

The United States had announced the military seals and economic assistance program were under review as a result of army action in March against Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and the Awami League in East Pakistan.

Part of Peace Try

Pakistan and American sources said the Kissinger mission was part of an effort to reduce tension and lessen the chances for war over the rebellious East between India and Pakistan.

In New Delhi, the Indian informants said the request for a halt to all U.S. aid to Pakistan was made by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and other Indian officials to Kissinger during their meetings there. Kissinger also was told, the sources said, that the East Pakistani crisis must be settled as soon as possible.

Kissinger was urged particularly to insure that no further American military shipments were made to Pakistan, even if they were classified as "nonlethal weapons," one source said.

"Nonlethal items, such as tank screws, activate the most lethal engines of destruction, and are therefore entirely lethal," said one official, who indicated that Kissinger had sought to minimize the importance of past American shipments to Pakistan by explaining that many of the items were nonlethal.

The official said Kissinger was told that the latest U.S. arms posed "a serious threat to the peace and security" of the subcontinent because they could not be "delinked from the massive military assistance of over $2 billion given to Pakistan by the United States between 1954 and 1965."

$952,476 Said Net Earning Total At First National

Net operating earnings before securities gains or losses at First National Bank & Trust Co. of Lincoln were $952,476 for the six months ended June 30.

Figures show that net operating earnings were down about $30,000, from the $982,456 for the same period in 1970, when actions taken by the administration and the Federal Reserve Board to curb inflation forced interest rates on loans and investments to all-time highs.

Per share earnings, based on 584,058 shares outstanding as of June 30, were $1.64.

Net income, after securities gains or losses was $961,666 for the six months, compared to $985,330 for the same period last year. Total deposits stood at $201,589,941, compared to $183,141,257 a year ago. Loan totals were up from $118,052,398 last year to $131,328,889 on June 3.

Child Drowns In Motel Pool

Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shaw of Court Ada, Ohio, was swimming in the motel's swimming pool with his parents at the time of the mishap.

Court Rules No Support Due Disobedient Children

Albany, N.Y. (AP) — Ruling that "the father has the right to require that the daughter conform to his reasonable demands," the Court of Appeals upheld unanimously Wednesday a New York lawyer who cut off support to his student daughter when she defied his orders.

The father had sent his daughter to the University of Louisville with orders to live in a dormitory — hoping to insulate the 20-year-old girl from a hippie lifestyle. She later moved into an off-campus apartment.

Upon learning of this, the father cut off support and ordered her to return to New York. She refused to return to her father's home and sued for support.

"It is a sad but telling commentary upon the realtionship subsisting between father and daughter that resort to the courts was employed to resolve this domestic problem," Judge John F. Scileppi said in the opinion.

A minor, "rather than submit to what her father considers to be proper discipline may be induced to abandon the latter's home but in so doing," he wrote, "She cannot enlist the aid of the court in frustrating that authority."

The daughter had won her point in Family Court, which ordered the father to pay $250 a month until the girl's 21st birthday in October and three semesters of tuition at the college, under threat of a 30-day jail sentence.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court reversed the Family Court and said the father should pay only one semester's tuition and health bills incurred by his daughter before last Nov. 30. The Court of Appeals agreed.

Scileppi said the girl forfeits her right to demand support when she abandons her home voluntarily and without cause against the will of the parent and for the purpose of avoiding parental control.

U.S. Reassures Pakistan Of Arms Noninterference

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP) — The U.S. government has assured Pakistan it will not interfere with four or five more shiploads of ammunition and military spare parts still due here from the United States, Foreign ministry sources reported Wednesday.

In New Delhi, the Indian government asked the United States to halt all military and economic aid to Pakistan as a way to end civil strife in East Pakistan and to insure the return of seven million Pakistani refuges now in India, official Indian informants reported.

They had no immediate comment on the reported U.S. assurances to the Pakistanis.

These developments came on the eve of a visit to Pakistan by Henry A. Kissinger, foreign affairs adviser to President Nixon.

Kissinger will come from New Delhi where his arrival Tuesday was marked by anti-American demonstrations against two shipnents of ammunition and spare parts already sent from the United States.

Under Existing Licenses

According to Foreign Ministry sources the United States has ruled it will not issue new licenses to Pakistan but will permit Pakistan to continue shipments of material purchased under existing licenses.

The source said the parts and ammunition were purchased in commercial deals but did not disclose the terms.

A U.S. Embassy source said Pakistani purchases of spare parts and ammunition amounted to about $20 million annually and had ben going on regularly since 1967 when the United States partially lifted a ban on sales of military equipment imposed during the 1965 war between India and Pakistan.

The United States had announced the military seals and economic assistance program were under review as a result of army action in March against Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and the Awami League in East Pakistan.

Part of Peace Try

Pakistan and American sources said the Kissinger mission was part of an effort to reduce tension and lessen the chances for war over the rebellious East between India and Pakistan.

In New Delhi, the Indian informants said the request for a halt to all U.S. aid to Pakistan was made by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and other Indian officials to Kissinger during their meetings there. Kissinger also was told, the sources said, that the East Pakistani crisis must be settled as soon as possible.

Kissinger was urged particularly to insure that no further American military shipments were made to Pakistan, even if they were classified as "nonlethal weapons," one source said.

"Nonlethal items, such as tank screws, activate the most lethal engines of destruction, and are therefore entirely lethal," said one official, who indicated that Kissinger had sought to minimize the importance of past American shipments to Pakistan by explaining that many of the items were nonlethal.

The official said Kissinger was told that the latest U.S. arms posed "a serious threat to the peace and security" of the subcontinent because they could not be "delinked from the massive military assistance of over $2 billion given to Pakistan by the United States between 1954 and 1965."

$952,476 Said Net Earning Total At First National

Net operating earnings before securities gains or losses at First National Bank & Trust Co. of Lincoln were $952,476 for the six months ended June 30.

Figures show that net operating earnings were down about $30,000, from the $982,456 for the same period in 1970, when actions taken by the administration and the Federal Reserve Board to curb inflation forced interest rates on loans and investments to all-time highs.

Per share earnings, based on 584,058 shares outstanding as of June 30, were $1.64.

Net income, after securities gains or losses was $961,666 for the six months, compared to $985,330 for the same period last year. Total deposits stood at $201,589,941, compared to $183,141,257 a year ago. Loan totals were up from $118,052,398 last year to $131,328,889 on June 3.

Child Drowns In Motel Pool

Court Rules No Support Due Disobedient Children

Albany, N.Y. (AP) — Ruling that "the father has the right to require that the daughter conform to his reasonable demands," the Court of Appeals upheld unanimously Wednesday a New York lawyer who cut off support to his student daughter when she defied his orders.

The father had sent his daughter to the University of Louisville with orders to live in a dormitory — hoping to insulate the 20-year-old girl from a hippie lifestyle. She later moved into an off-campus apartment.

Upon learning of this, the father cut off support and ordered her to return to New York. She refused to return to her father's home and sued for support.

"It is a sad but telling commentary upon the realtionship subsisting between father and daughter that resort to the courts was employed to resolve this domestic problem," Judge John F. Scileppi said in the opinion.

A minor, "rather than submit to what her father considers to be proper discipline may be induced to abandon the latter's home but in so doing," he wrote, "She cannot enlist the aid of the court in frustrating that authority."

The daughter had won her point in Family Court, which ordered the father to pay $250 a month until the girl's 21st birthday in October and three semesters of tuition at the college, under threat of a 30-day jail sentence.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court reversed the Family Court and said the father should pay only one semester's tuition and health bills incurred by his daughter before last Nov. 30. The Court of Appeals agreed.

Scileppi said the girl forfeits her right to demand support when she abandons her home voluntarily and without cause against the will of the parent and for the purpose of avoiding parental control.

THE PADDOCK

By Mark Gordon
Star Sports Writer

'You're It'

Dean Williams just "sort of fell into" the position of being the veteran of Nebraska horse racing officials.

"I was in the office at Columbus and Johnny Daniels came in and said you're it," the Daily Racing Form Nebraska correspondent relates. "I guess you could say I just sort of fell into it."

That was back in 1950 when Williams began the state's racing circuit as the Form's Trackman — three years after the native of Harrison joined the horseplayers' bible as a calltaker. Twenty-one years later, he still is in that position, but his responsibilities at each of the tracks except Ak-Sar-Ben have increased.

Besides serving as track announcer at the five minor Nebraska tracks, Williams has also been racing secretary for six years at Fonner Park. This year he will also determine each day's program at the other tracks since his predecessor Jack Fickler, is now a Nebraska racing steward.

"It's a lot of work being racing secretary," said Williams, who put together his first State Fairgrounds card Wednesday. "There's more responsibility when you have to put the races together and try to get a good card."

Although he said he has little trouble with announcing and calling the proper horses in their correct positions he still terms writing stories as his toughest chore. But he admits even that task is becoming easier.

Learn Something New

"I've always tried to learn someone else's job at the track so if the need comes, I can fill in," he said. "I've done just about everything, but there's still so many things that I could do better."

Williams used to relax when the state's racing season ended in November until Fonner opened in late March, but since 1965, he has kept busy.

But since then he has been clerk of scales at Turf Paradise in Phoenix and has done announcing, public relations work and Form Trackman chores at Rillito Park in Tucson. However, his biggest thrill was serving for three weeks as Trackman at Churchill Downs last fall.

"That has to be one of my biggest thrills in racing," he says." Everyone dreams of calling a race at Churchill Downs in the heart of racing country. It was the first time I'd ever been there and I even got to call the 1970 Kentucky Derby winner (Dust Commander) three times."

While that was Williams' first encounter with the "big-time" of racing, his interest in horses dates back to when he was a youngster in Harrison, growing up on a ranch.

His grandfather, Sid Williams, raced horses at Ak-Sar-Ben and would constantly talk with his father, Floyd Williams, who also raised horses, about the racing game.

Once A Groom

"I always had hopes of being in racing somewhere," he recalls, "and then in 1945 I became a groom at Ak-Sar-Ben and John Daniels asked me to take his calls just two years later."

Now, he lives in Grand Island during the off-season and, when the races aren't at Fonner Park, he tours the state in a trailer from track to track.

"If I had the opportunity to do it all over again, I'd do the same thing," he says. "I get to do what I like the best and that's call the races."

In cracking the Lincoln track record for 5½-furlongs with a blazing 1:05, the 6-year-old chestnut mare turned back Husker Ace by one-length in capturing the $2,500 Inaugural Purse.

"We needed that race last week (Friday's win in the Nebraskaland Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben) to make her fit for today," said Ecoffey, who steered home four winners, two seconds and two thirds.

She was challenged throughout by Husker Ace, who gave the Paul Kemling-owned mare all she needed in making her first appearance at the Fairgrounds.

"That Husker Ace is a good horse and we knew he'd be trouble for us," said Kemling, "I wasn't worried about breaking any track records — I just wanted to win."

Although Kemling is undecided if Bold Accent will run again here, he said he'd like for her to compete at least once more — if competition can be found for the 1971 winner of $25,300. He added that only 6-furlong jaunts will be considered.

"You don't tell Ecoffey how to ride this horse — he's ridden her enough to know what to do," Kemling said. "In fact, he probably knows the horse better than Orv (trainer Orville Kemling) or I do."

In scoring her sixth victory in 11 starts this year Bold Accent earned $1,500 and paid a paltry $2.40, $2.20 and $2.20 while Husker Ace returned $500 to W. and G. Fudge and $2.20 and $2.20 to backers. Meadeland, which finished four lengths back of Husker Ace, earned $300 for Mrs. R. Meade and also returned $2.20.

Although the crowd of 4,352 was down from last year's mark of 4,953, the mutuel handle was up — $214,573 to 1970's $213,477. But the 100-degree temperatures and high humidity were undoubtedly factors leading to a lower crowd.

Last year's leading jockey Fred Ecoffey started where he left off by steering all eight mounts into money positions. Winners for the Pine Ridge, S.D., native included Great Mito in the second, Society Verna in the third and Perry Gray in the eighth.

It was a day for short-priced winners as the biggest price through eight races for a victor was $6.00 four odds-on favorites also triumphed.

In today's feature on the eight-race program, seven 3-year-olds and up will scamper 5½-furlongs for a $1,600 purse with Mr. Wineo set to carry top-weight of 117 pounds and Wayne Anderson.

Rounding out the field will be Millie O, with Alan Patterson and 109 pounds and Shesa Cutie with John Rettele and 107 pounds.

Three Bunched At Top In Men's Play

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

On the first day of the City Men's Golf Tournament, leader Scott Brunzell said he was only worried about one other golfer — Lance Gloe.

As it turned out, he should have continued to look one more name down the ladder to Jerry Trimble, who shot a blistering 69 over the par 71 Pioneers Golf Course to join both Gloe and Brunzell for the lead at 145.

Brunzell, who collected one of the two aces during opening day play at the Lincoln Country Club, said he knew it was going to be close at the start of the second day of play Wednesday.

"I didn't know what he (Gloe) was doing since he was several groups ahead of me," the redheaded golfer said. "I just shot as good as I could and hoped it would stand up.

"I played consistant," he said about his two-over-par 73 finish "But I had a three-putt that hurt and two bogies in the first nine that didn't do me any good either."

Results, Page 28

Gloe finished with a 71 to make up the two strokes he was down after finishing the Lincoln Country Club course but said he was looking forward to playing at Holmes Park today.

"I do most of my playing on Holmes," the co-leader grinned. "I guess you could say that was 'my' course. I hope that I can put it all together to move ahead of Brunzell."

Gloe said his bogey on the first hole, a 520-yard par 5, made him hop a little to finish as strong as he did.

"I birdied five and eight, though, and then started to hit the ball a little better. The trees on 12 bothered me a little, but you could say that I had little trouble any time. I wasn't really bothered about any of the holes."

Trimble finished several groups behind Brunzell and Gloe and said he really had to work to finish with the top score of the day.

"I bogeyed the first two holes," he offered in explanation. "So I knew that I had to play catch-up golf. But it didn't really bother me . . . I was hitting right down the middle and my putting was holding up. I didn't have any three putts at all today (Wednesday) so you know my chipping was holding up pretty strong also.

"I'm looking forward to playing at Holmes. Both these (Pioneers and Holmes) are publinks so I should have a pretty good day. I'm used to both courses."

Trimble said he had it in him to finish as good as he did.

"I've always been close and I knew that sometime I would be able to put it all together. And I think I might be able to carry it over into Thursday's play on Holmes."

Then he flashed a quick grin. "They say this kind of luck comes in streaks. "We'll find out won't we?"

Trevino Tough Jack Stumbles

. . . IN BRITISH OPEN

©The New York Times

Southport, England — There was Lee Trevino among the four leaders, but the story of opening day in this 100th British Open was that defending champion Jack Nicklaus blew it at the finish.

Four under par after the first four holes, 32 at the turn with the day's lowest nine, Jack was still four under with two holes to go. They are considered easy par fives and, for a heavy hitter like Nicklaus, normally easy to birdie.

Results, Page 28

The rest doesn't bear telling. Instead of heading the field, he finished with two sixes for a 71, two strokes behind the leaders.

Five of those 12 shots at the end were putts.

Trevino putted like a demon. Still in that hot streak that brought him the U.S. and Canadian Opens over the last three weeks, Lee was around in 69 to tie with Tony Jacklin, Howie Johnson and 23-year-old Vincente Fernandez from Argentina.

"I was spraying the ball somewhat," said Trevino, but his putter was the antidote. He had nine single putt greens in all and only one three putter on the roller coaster par-three 14th which he bogeyed.

In good voice, he encouraged amateur Michael Bonallack, captain of Britain's winning Walker Cup team, to a 71. "Don't catch it, Lord: It will be two strikes," said Trevino on a sky-high drive by Bonallack.

Over-all, Trevino had six birdies, four of them on the relatively simple par-five holes.

Jacklin had a fine round in the making, too. Playing so poorly recently that he missed the cut while defending his U.S. Open title, his game has come rushing back since he returned home to Britain.

Like Nicklaus, he was four under with two to play. Tony parred the 17th and with a huge crowd cheering their hero, he leapfrogged the green-side bunkers with a two-iron shot and had a chance for an eagle three.

The 20-foot putt trickled three feet past and to groans he muffed it coming back.

For most of the day, Howie Johnson was in the lead. Two deuces on the short holes got him to the turn in 33 and birdies on the 10th and 17th meant his 69. A Minnesota native who now lives in Palm Springs, Calif., 46-year-old Johnson turned pro at 30 on a gamble and finished 12th in points last year, which exempted him from qualifying here.

Hot Weather Doesn't Bother Aunt Priscilla

Your Aunt Priscilla noticed a lot of bettors on opening day at the State Fairgrounds who were perspiring freely, but there's one thing that will make even a little lady forget the heat.

Priscilla

There's no better remedy than a winner and your Aunt Priscilla was two-for-two Wednesday, watching my Champagne Jo come in first to pay $4.60 in the first and Perry Gray returning $4.20 in the eighth.

That puts my $100 spree fund for the races at a healthy $104.80.

Old Master Paige Finally Gains Complete Hall Status

New York (UPI) — Legendary Satchel Paige, calling it "the greatest thing that ever happened to me in baseball," was given full membership Wednesday in baseball's Hall of Fame instead of being honored in a separate niche for players of the old Negro leagues.

Earlier this year, the Hall of Fame announced that a separate wing of the museum was being set aside for players in the Negro leagues, which flourished before black players were admitted to the all-white major leagues. Paige was chosen as the first player to be honored in the wing.

However, following a storm of indignation about the "separate-but-equal" treatment for the former stars of the Negro leagues, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Paul Kirk, president of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum at Cooperstown, N.Y., announced that Paige and future inductees would be given full membership in the main Hall of Fame.

"I was just going along with the program," said the pitcher, who estimates he won 2,000 of the 2,500 games he pitched during his 40-year career, "and I didn't have no kick or no say when they put me in that separate wing. But getting into the real Hall of Fame is the greatest thing that ever happened to me in baseball.

"All we players in the Negro leagues could do was hear about the Hall of Fame. Now it's real."

The board of directors of the Hall of Fame held a special meeting to give full status to Paige. THE PADDOCK

By Mark Gordon

'You're It'

Dean Williams just "sort of fell into" the position of being the veteran of Nebraska horse racing officials.

"I was in the office at Columbus and Johnny Daniels came in and said you're it," the Daily Racing Form Nebraska correspondent relates. "I guess you could say I just sort of fell into it."

That was back in 1950 when Williams began the state's racing circuit as the Form's Trackman — three years after the native of Harrison joined the horseplayers' bible as a calltaker. Twenty-one years later, he still is in that position, but his responsibilities at each of the tracks except Ak-Sar-Ben have increased.

Besides serving as track announcer at the five minor Nebraska tracks, Williams has also been racing secretary for six years at Fonner Park. This year he will also determine each day's program at the other tracks since his predecessor Jack Fickler, is now a Nebraska racing steward.

"It's a lot of work being racing secretary," said Williams, who put together his first State Fairgrounds card Wednesday. "There's more responsibility when you have to put the races together and try to get a good card."

Although he said he has little trouble with announcing and calling the proper horses in their correct positions he still terms writing stories as his toughest chore. But he admits even that task is becoming easier.

Learn Something New

"I've always tried to learn someone else's job at the track so if the need comes, I can fill in," he said. "I've done just about everything, but there's still so many things that I could do better."

Williams used to relax when the state's racing season ended in November until Fonner opened in late March, but since 1965, he has kept busy.

But since then he has been clerk of scales at Turf Paradise in Phoenix and has done announcing, public relations work and Form Trackman chores at Rillito Park in Tucson. However, his biggest thrill was serving for three weeks as Trackman at Churchill Downs last fall.

"That has to be one of my biggest thrills in racing," he says." Everyone dreams of calling a race at Churchill Downs in the heart of racing country. It was the first time I'd ever been there and I even got to call the 1970 Kentucky Derby winner (Dust Commander) three times."

While that was Williams' first encounter with the "big-time" of racing, his interest in horses dates back to when he was a youngster in Harrison, growing up on a ranch.

His grandfather, Sid Williams, raced horses at Ak-Sar-Ben and would constantly talk with his father, Floyd Williams, who also raised horses, about the racing game.

Once A Groom

"I always had hopes of being in racing somewhere," he recalls, "and then in 1945 I became a groom at Ak-Sar-Ben and John Daniels asked me to take his calls just two years later."

Now, he lives in Grand Island during the off-season and, when the races aren't at Fonner Park, he tours the state in a trailer from track to track.

"If I had the opportunity to do it all over again, I'd do the same thing," he says. "I get to do what I like the best and that's call the races."

Bold Accent followed a trend which prevailed through eight of the first nine races at Wednesday's opening card at the State Fairgrounds — returning a short price under the guidance of Fred Ecoffey.

In cracking the Lincoln track record for 5½-furlongs with a blazing 1:05, the 6-year-old chestnut mare turned back Husker Ace by one-length in capturing the $2,500 Inaugural Purse.

"We needed that race last week (Friday's win in the Nebraskaland Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben) to make her fit for today," said Ecoffey, who steered home four winners, two seconds and two thirds.

She was challenged throughout by Husker Ace, who gave the Paul Kemling-owned mare all she needed in making her first appearance at the Fairgrounds.

"That Husker Ace is a good horse and we knew he'd be trouble for us," said Kemling, "I wasn't worried about breaking any track records — I just wanted to win."

Although Kemling is undecided if Bold Accent will run again here, he said he'd like for her to compete at least once more — if competition can be found for the 1971 winner of $25,300. He added that only 6-furlong jaunts will be considered.

"You don't tell Ecoffey how to ride this horse — he's ridden her enough to know what to do," Kemling said. "In fact, he probably knows the horse better than Orv (trainer Orville Kemling) or I do."

In scoring her sixth victory in 11 starts this year Bold Accent earned $1,500 and paid a paltry $2.40, $2.20 and $2.20 while Husker Ace returned $500 to W. and G. Fudge and $2.20 and $2.20 to backers. Meadeland, which finished four lengths back of Husker Ace, earned $300 for Mrs. R. Meade and also returned $2.20.

Although the crowd of 4,352 was down from last year's mark of 4,953, the mutuel handle was up — $214,573 to 1970's $213,477. But the 100-degree temperatures and high humidity were undoubtedly factors leading to a lower crowd.

Last year's leading jockey Fred Ecoffey started where he left off by steering all eight mounts into money positions. Winners for the Pine Ridge, S.D., native included Great Mito in the second, Society Verna in the third and Perry Gray in the eighth.

It was a day for short-priced winners as the biggest price through eight races for a victor was $6.00 four odds-on favorites also triumphed.

In today's feature on the eight-race program, seven 3-year-olds and up will scamper 5½-furlongs for a $1,600 purse with Mr. Wineo set to carry top-weight of 117 pounds and Wayne Anderson.

Rounding out the field will be Millie O, with Alan Patterson and 109 pounds and Shesa Cutie with John Rettele and 107 pounds.

Three Bunched At Top In Men's Play

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

On the first day of the City Men's Golf Tournament, leader Scott Brunzell said he was only worried about one other golfer — Lance Gloe.

As it turned out, he should have continued to look one more name down the ladder to Jerry Trimble, who shot a blistering 69 over the par 71 Pioneers Golf Course to join both Gloe and Brunzell for the lead at 145.

Brunzell, who collected one of the two aces during opening day play at the Lincoln Country Club, said he knew it was going to be close at the start of the second day of play Wednesday.

"I didn't know what he (Gloe) was doing since he was several groups ahead of me," the redheaded golfer said. "I just shot as good as I could and hoped it would stand up.

"I played consistant," he said about his two-over-par 73 finish "But I had a three-putt that hurt and two bogies in the first nine that didn't do me any good either."

Results, Page 28

Gloe finished with a 71 to make up the two strokes he was down after finishing the Lincoln Country Club course but said he was looking forward to playing at Holmes Park today.

"I do most of my playing on Holmes," the co-leader grinned. "I guess you could say that was 'my' course. I hope that I can put it all together to move ahead of Brunzell."

Gloe said his bogey on the first hole, a 520-yard par 5, made him hop a little to finish as strong as he did.

"I birdied five and eight, though, and then started to hit the ball a little better. The trees on 12 bothered me a little, but you could say that I had little trouble any time. I wasn't really bothered about any of the holes."

Trimble finished several groups behind Brunzell and Gloe and said he really had to work to finish with the top score of the day.

"I bogeyed the first two holes," he offered in explanation. "So I knew that I had to play catch-up golf. But it didn't really bother me . . . I was hitting right down the middle and my putting was holding up. I didn't have any three putts at all today (Wednesday) so you know my chipping was holding up pretty strong also.

"I'm looking forward to playing at Holmes. Both these (Pioneers and Holmes) are publinks so I should have a pretty good day. I'm used to both courses."

Trimble said he had it in him to finish as good as he did.

"I've always been close and I knew that sometime I would be able to put it all together. And I think I might be able to carry it over into Thursday's play on Holmes."

Then he flashed a quick grin. "They say this kind of luck comes in streaks. "We'll find out won't we?"

FAZIO TO HELP DEDICATE NEW PARKWAY UNITS

installed, completely automatic Brunswick Astroline scoring system.

Fazio will bowl at 2 and 7 p.m. and offer tips to bowlers at those times.

Some of his biggest victories were achieved in the 1955 ABC Masters, the Detroit Times Classic three times, the 1956 Michigan State All Events and the Maxie Kosof Endurance Classic three times. In the grueling 40-game endurance test, Buzz holds two records — highest game, 290, and most total pins, 8535 (an average of better than 213).

As a team captain, the Hall of Fame bowler led the historic Strohs of Detroit to three straight BPAA National Team Match Game championships and one ABC Team All Events title.

Trevino Tough Jack Stumbles

. . . IN BRITISH OPEN

The New York Times

Southport, England — There was Lee Trevino among the four leaders, but the story of opening day in this 100th British Open was that defending champion Jack Nicklaus blew it at the finish.

Four under par after the first four holes, 32 at the turn with the day's lowest nine, Jack was still four under with two holes to go. They are considered easy par fives and, for a heavy hitter like Nicklaus, normally easy to birdie.

Results, Page 28

The rest doesn't bear telling. Instead of heading the field, he finished with two sixes for a 71, two strokes behind the leaders.

Five of those 12 shots at the end were putts.

Trevino putted like a demon. Still in that hot streak that brought him the U.S. and Canadian Opens over the last three weeks, Lee was around in 69 to tie with Tony Jacklin, Howie Johnson and 23-year-old Vincente Fernandez from Argentina.

"I was spraying the ball somewhat," said Trevino, but his putter was the antidote. He had nine single putt greens in all and only one three putter on the roller coaster par-three 14th which he bogeyed.

In good voice, he encouraged amateur Michael Bonallack, captain of Britain's winning Walker Cup team, to a 71. "Don't catch it, Lord: It will be two strikes," said Trevino on a sky-high drive by Bonallack.

Over-all, Trevino had six birdies, four of them on the relatively simple par-five holes.

Jacklin had a fine round in the making, too. Playing so poorly recently that he missed the cut while defending his U.S. Open title, his game has come rushing back since he returned home to Britain.

Like Nicklaus, he was four under with two to play. Tony parred the 17th and with a huge crowd cheering their hero, he leapfrogged the green-side bunkers with a two-iron shot and had a chance for an eagle three.

The 20-foot putt trickled three feet past and to groans he muffed it coming back.

For most of the day, Howie Johnson was in the lead. Two deuces on the short holes got him to the turn in 33 and birdies on the 10th and 17th meant his 69. A Minnesota native who now lives in Palm Springs, Calif., 46-year-old Johnson turned pro at 30 on a gamble and finished 12th in points last year, which exempted him from qualifying here.

Hot Weather Doesn't Bother Aunt Priscilla

Your Aunt Priscilla noticed a lot of bettors on opening day at the State Fairgrounds who were perspiring freely, but there's one thing that will make even a little lady forget the heat.

Priscilla

There's no better remedy than a winner and your Aunt Priscilla was two-for-two Wednesday, watching my Champagne Jo come in first to pay $4.60 in the first and Perry Gray returning $4.20 in the eighth.

That puts my $100 spree fund for the races at a healthy $104.80.

Old Master Paige Finally Gains Complete Hall Status

New York (UPI) — Legendary Satchel Paige, calling it "the greatest thing that ever happened to me in baseball," was given full membership Wednesday in baseball's Hall of Fame instead of being honored in a separate niche for players of the old Negro leagues.

Earlier this year, the Hall of Fame announced that a separate wing of the museum was being set aside for players in the Negro leagues, which flourished before black players were admitted to the all-white major leagues. Paige was chosen as the first player to be honored in the wing.

However, following a storm of indignation about the "separate-but-equal" treatment for the former stars of the Negro leagues, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Paul Kirk, president of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum at Cooperstown, N.Y., announced that Paige and future inductees would be given full membership in the main Hall of Fame.

"I was just going along with the program," said the pitcher, who estimates he won 2,000 of the 2,500 games he pitched during his 40-year career, "and I didn't have no kick or no say when they put me in that separate wing. But getting into the real Hall of Fame is the greatest thing that ever happened to me in baseball.

"All we players in the Negro leagues could do was hear about the Hall of Fame. Now it's real."

The board of directors of the Hall of Fame held a special meeting to give full status to Paige. He will be inducted on Aug. 9 in Cooperstown, along with six former major league players — Harry Hooper, Chick Hofey, Davey Bancroft, Joe Kelley, Jake Beckley and Rube Marquard — and George Weiss, former general manager of the New York Yankees and Mets.

Orioles Increase Lead By Blanking Senators

By Associated Press

Baltimore's Frank Robinson rapped four hits, moving within one hit of the coveted 2,500 carer mark, and Pat Dobson pitched a four-hitter for his sixth straight victory as the Orioles blanked Washington, 4-0, Wednesday night and increased their American League East lead to three games over Boston.

The Red Sox split a night doubleheader with Cleveland, winning 4-0, on Ray Culp's two-hitter and losing 4-3.

Elsewhere in the American League, Chicago edged Oakland, 2-1; Milwaukee trimmed Kansas City, 8-2; Ney York defeated Detroit, 5-3, in 11 innings, and California trimmed Minnesota, 3-1.

In the National League, Pittsburgh hiked its East lead to 6½ games over New York, trouncing Cincinnati, 9-3, while the Mets were losing to Montreal, 12-7.

Houston set a club runs, crushing San Francisco's faltering West leaders, 18-4. Rookie Earl Williams two homers led Atlanta to a 4-2 victory over Philadelphia. San Diego topped St. Louis and Bob Gibson, 4-1, on Clay Kirby's three-hitter.

Carl Yastrzemski's three-run homer and Reggie Smith's 18th homer backed Culp's two-hitter.

In the second game, Cleveland tagged Luis Tiant for all its runs in the opening inning, the first scoring on a double by Nettles and the others on Chuck Hinton's homer.

Pinch runner Lee Richard raced all the way home from second on Rich McKinney's sacrifice fly in the seventh, breaking a tie and giving Chicago its victory over Oakland. Sal Bando homered for the A's.

Dave May's three-run homer and Phil Roof's three-run triple keyed Milwaukee's attack against Kansas City. Rookie Bill Parsons checked the Royals on eight hits, including Amos Otis' 14th homer.

Bobby Murcer's third double — and fourth hit — drove in two runs in the 11th and gave the Yankees their victory over Detroit. Bill Freehan knocked in all three Tiger runs with a pair of homers.

Pittsburgh saddled Cincinnati with its sixth straight setback, with a five-run first inning, and a four-run seventh. Bob Johnson stopped the Reds on five hits, including two homers by Lee May and one by Bernie Carbo.

Jim Hickman's three-run homer and run-scoring single paced the Chicago Cubs to a 6-5 triumph over Los Angeles in the first game of a West Coast doubleheader.

Billy Williams powered a two-run homer and reliever Oray Newman cut down a Los Angeles uprising in the eighth inning, leading Chicago to a 4-3 triumph over Los Angeles and a sweep of their twi-night double-header.

Big Eight's Duke Has Interview For Big 10 Post

Chicago (AP) — Big Ten athletic leaders ended interviews with three candidates for the post of conference commissioner Wednesday and said they will confer with the presidents of their respective schools who, acting together, will make the ultimate selection.

The joint meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors ended without recommendation of any of three possible candidates.

The three candidates interviewed were:

Charles Neinas, 40, a top aide to Walter Byers, executive secretary of the NCAA; Wayne Duke, commissioner of the Big Eight; and John A. Fuzak, conference faculty representative from Michigan State.

Fuzak, 56, has been his school's faculty representative for 12 years and is regarded the top choice to replace William R. Reed, who died May 20.

Orioles Increase Lead By Blanking Senators

By Associated Press

Baltimore's Frank Robinson rapped four hits, moving within one hit of the coveted 2,500 carer mark, and Pat Dobson pitched a four-hitter for his sixth straight victory as the Orioles blanked Washington, 4-0, Wednesday night and increased their American League East lead to three games over Boston.

The Red Sox split a night doubleheader with Cleveland, winning 4-0, on Ray Culp's two-hitter and losing 4-3.

Elsewhere in the American League, Chicago edged Oakland, 2-1; Milwaukee trimmed Kansas City, 8-2; Ney York defeated Detroit, 5-3, in 11 innings, and California trimmed Minnesota, 3-1.

In the National League, Pittsburgh hiked its East lead to 6½ games over New York, trouncing Cincinnati, 9-3, while the Mets were losing to Montreal, 12-7.

Houston set a club runs, crushing San Francisco's faltering West leaders, 18-4. Rookie Earl Williams two homers led Atlanta to a 4-2 victory over Philadelphia. San Diego topped St. Louis and Bob Gibson, 4-1, on Clay Kirby's three-hitter.

Robinson's four hits included his 12th homer in support of Dobson's first shutout as an Oriole.

Carl Yastrzemski's three-run homer and Reggie Smith's 18th homer backed Culp's two-hitter.

In the second game, Cleveland tagged Luis Tiant for all its runs in the opening inning, the first scoring on a double by Nettles ond the others on Chuck Hinton's homer.

Pinch runner Lee Richard raced all the way home from second on Rich McKinney's sacrifice fly in the seventh, breaking a tie and giving Chicago its victory over Oakland. Sal Bando homered for the A's.

Dave May's three-run homer and Phil Roof's three-run triple keyed Milwaukee's attack against Kansas City. Rookie Bill Parsons checked the Royals on eight hits, including Amos Otis' 14th homer.

Bobby Murcer's third double — and fourth hit — drove in two runs in the 11th and gave the Yankees their victory over Detroit. Bill Freehan knocked in all three Tiger runs with a pair of homers.

Pittsburgh saddled Cincinnati with its sixth straight setback, with a five-run first inning, and a four-run seventh. Bob Johnson stopped the Reds on five hits, including two homers by Lee May and one by Bernie Carbo.

Jim Hickman's three-run homer and run-scoring single paced the Chicago Cubs to a 6-5 triumph over Los Angeles in the first game of a West Coast doubleheader.

Billy Williams powered a two-run homer and reliever Oray Newman cut down a Los Angeles uprising in the eighth inning, leading Chicago to a 4-3 triumph over Los Angeles and a sweep of their twi-night double-header.

Big Eight's Duke Has Interview For Big 10 Post

Chicago (AP) — Big Ten athletic leaders ended interviews with three candidates for the post of conference commissioner Wednesday and said they will confer with the presidents of their respective schools who, acting together, will make the ultimate selection.

The joint meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors ended without recommendation of any of three possible candidates.

The three candidates interviewed were:

Charles Neinas, 40, a top aide to Walter Byers, executive secretary of the NCAA; Wayne Duke, commissioner of the Big Eight; and John A. Fuzak, conference faculty representative from Michigan State.

Fuzak, 56, has been his school's faculty representative for 12 years and is regarded the top choice to replace William R. Reed, who died May 20.

Powell Will Miss All-Star Game

. . . ORIOLE FIRST BASEMAN HAS HAIRLINE FRACTURE IN WRIST

Baltimore (AP) — Boog Powell, the big first baseman of the Baltimore Orioles, has a hairline fracture of the right wrist and will be out of the starting line-up for a week to 10 days.

The injury, which has been bothering Powell for about two weeks, also will knock him out of Tuesday's All-Star Game in Detroit. He was to have started for the American League.

"The doctor told me the injury will take time to heal," Powell said, "and that it won't get better if I continue to play."

A brace and aluminum splint was placed on Powell's right hand after X-rays were taken Wednesday.

Harry Dalton, director of player personnel for the Orioles, said Powell may be available to pinch hit during his absence from the regular line-up.

Powell has had a difficult time with his batting average all season, hitting only .220. But he still leads the club with 14 home runs and 54 runs batted in.

The Orioles still lead the American League East by 2½ games despite the long slump by last year's Most Valuable Player.

"I first noticed the wrist hurt when I slid into second base in Washington on June 21," Powell said. "I've hurt it a couple times since then while batting, and again when I slid in a game at Cleveland last week."

Powell didn't play the first game of Tuesday's twi-night doubleheader and was removed after striking out in the first inning of the nightcap. He twice dropped the bat after swinging and missing.

"When I swing and miss, I reach a point in my follow through where I can't hold the bat," Powell said. "Not only does it hurt, but the wrist is weak."

NL's Slugging Outfield Trio Will Supply Savvy, Power

New York (AP) — The slugging trio of Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates was named Wednesday as the starting outfield for the National League in the All-Star Game on Tuesday.

The awesome threesome, including the major league home run and runs batted in leader in Stargell, will be aligned opposite the AL's outfield of Carl Yastrzemzki of Boston, Tony Oliva of Minnesota and Frank Robinson of Baltimore for at least three innings of the game at Detroit.

All the players winning starting positions in the fan voting announced Wednesday must play at least three innings.

Mays, who will be appearing in his 22nd All-Star Game, will be joined as a starter by teammate Willie McCovey at first base. The remainder of the infield shows Glenn Beckert of Chicago at second, Joe Torre of St. Louis at third and Bud Harrelson of New York at shortstop. Johnny Bench of Cincinnati will be the catcher.

Frank Robinson will be joined on the American League starting team by one other Oriole teammate — third baseman Brooks Robinson.

The remainder of the infield has Norn Cash of Detroit at first, Rod Carew of Minnesota at second and Luis Aparicio of Boston at shortstop. The catcher will be Ray Fosse of Cleveland.

The respective managers, Earl Weaver of Baltimore and Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati, will name the pitchers and the other players for the 42nd battle between the stars of the two leagues.

Aaron, who will be in his 20th All-Star Game, was the No. 1 vote-getter in the entire balloting, drawing 1,119,306 votes out of the 2,396,895 cast. Mays was second in the NL with 1,048,887. Bench was the only other NL star to go over a million votes with 1,060,657.

Anderson Tabs Eight NL Hurlers

San Francisco (AP) — A National League pitching staff including just one left-hander, Steve Carlton of St. Louis, was named Wednesday for next week's All-Star Game.

Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson, who selected the eight-man staff, will have seven starting pitchers and one reliever, Clay Carroll of the Reds, available for the baseball classic in Detroit's Tiger Stadium Tuesday.

Juan Marichal of San Francisco, Tom Seaver of New York, Larry Dierker of Houston, Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago, Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh and Rick Wise of Philadelphia are the other members of the staff.

Carroll, Ellis and Wise are All-Stars for the first time.

Marichal, 10-5 this year after an off year in 1970, is on the National League squad for the ninth time. Seaver, off to a 10-4 start, had made the All-Star team in each of his five seasons with the Mets.

Carlton will be making his third All-Star Game trip, Jenkins and Dierker their second.

Marichal and Seaver, who was last year's National League starter, have great All-Star records. Marichal has appeared in seven games, winning two and losing none and compiling an 0.56 earned run average in 16 innings.

Seaver has pitched a total of six innings in the three All-Star games. He has not allowed a run, yielded only three hits, struck out 10 and walked one.

The Mets ace is the only 1971 pitching selection who was on the National League squad last year, when the team scored a 5-4 victory over the American League in a 12-inning game at Cincinnati.

Syracuse Open Tournament Set

Syracuse — The second annual Syracuse Open golf tournament, a two-man best ball event, is expected to attract 100 of the top area players at the Syracuse Golf Course Sunday.

Tee-off times are 8 a.m. and noon, for 18 holes of championship play and additional flights. Two-man teams can sign up for either tee time.

Twenty teams had signed up by early this week, and it was expected the 50 team limit would be reached.

Anderson Tabs Eight NL Hurlers

San Francisco (AP) — A National League pitching staff including just one left-hander, Steve Carlton of St. Louis, was named Wednesday for next week's All-Star Game.

Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson, who selected the eight-man staff, will have seven starting pitchers and one reliever, Clay Carroll of the Reds, available for the baseball classic in Detroit's Tiger Stadium Tuesday.

Juan Marichal of San Francisco, Tom Seaver of New York, Larry Dierker of Houston, Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago, Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh and Rick Wise of Philadelphia are the other members of the staff.

Carroll, Ellis and Wise are All-Stars for the first time.

Marichal, 10-5 this year after an off year in 1970, is on the National League squad for the ninth time. Seaver, off to a 10-4 start, had made the All-Star team in each of his five seasons with the Mets.

Carlton will be making his third All-Star Game trip, Jenkins and Dierker their second.

Marichal and Seaver, who was last year's National League starter, have great All-Star records. Marichal has appeared in seven games, winning two and losing none and compiling an 0.56 earned run average in 16 innings.

Seaver has pitched a total of six innings in the three All-Star games. He has not allowed a run, yielded only three hits, struck out 10 and walked one.

The Mets ace is the only 1971 pitching selection who was on the National League squad last year, when the team scored a 5-4 victory over the American League in a 12-inning game at Cincinnati.

Syracuse Open Tournament Set

Syracuse — The second annual Syracuse Open golf tournament, a two-man best ball event, is expected to attract 100 of the top area players at the Syracuse Golf Course Sunday.

Tee-off times are 8 a.m. and noon, for 18 holes of championship play and additional flights. Two-man teams can sign up for either tee time.

Twenty teams had signed up by early this week, and it was expected the 50 team limit would be reached.

ABA Kills Pro-Pullout Proposal

New York (AP) — A proposal calling for withdrawal of American troops from Indochina was killed by a 173-105 vote Wednesday at an assembly meeting of the American Bar Association.

The lawyers attending the organization's 94th annual meeting skirted a direct vote on withdrawal by going along with a recommendation of a resolutions committee that the ABA should not become "a forum for partisan political debate and action."

The committee agreed, however, with the spirit of the proposal to the extent that "all Americans hope for a speedy conclusion to the war."

The withdrawal proposed would have put the 150,000-member organization on record as calling upon the government "to withdraw as soon as physically and logistically possible, without endangering the lives of American troops, all U.S. military personnel from Indochina."

22 Debate

Twenty-two speakers debated for more than an hour before the standing vote was taken.

In another move, the assembly recommended a study of the legality of U.S. military actions in Vietnam.

Francis T. P. Plimpton, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations; Harold Stassen, former contender for the Republican presidential nomination, and Louis H. Pollak, a former dean of the Yale law school, were among the proponents of the withdrawal proposal.

A Civil War

Plimpton said President Nixon and Congress should have the views of the bar on "this matter of supreme public interest." He called the Vietnam conflict "essentially a civil war."

Backing with speeches or votes the resolutions committee's shelving of the issue were the current ABA president, Edward L. Wright of Little Rock, Ark.; Robert W. Meserve of Boston, who will become ABA president in 1972, and former ABA presidents John Satterfield of Yazoo City, Miss., Orison Marden of New York, Earl F. Morris of Columbus, Ohio, and Whitney North Seymour Sr. of New York.

Marden said the withdrawal resolution in substance supports about what Nixon has already outlined as his aim. However, he said, approval by the ABA "will not be so construed by the enemy and the press."

"The ABA will be plastered," he added.

Another opponent of the withdrawal proposal, John J. Wicker Jr. of Richmond, Va., said adoption would be "a tremendous propaganda value for Hanoi."

'Stab In The Back'

Edward L. Benoit of Twin Falls, Idaho, said opponents of the war should resort to "the ballot boxes."

Raymond Coward of Arlington, Tex., called the withdrawal idea "strictly a political issue that has nothing to do with the professional purposes of this meeting."

In seeking a vote, however, David L. Nixon of Manchester, N.H., chairman of the judiciary committee of the New Hampshire state senate, said the ABA should be "a force for morality."

House Shuns Information About CIA Activity In Laos

Washington (UPI) — The House decided Wednesday it would be both improper and fruitless to demand that the administration tell it what the military and Central Intelligence Agency are doing in Laos.

By a vote of 261 to 118, members tabled —and thus killed—a "resolution of inquiry" introduced by Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., that would have ordered the Secretary of State to furnish the House with the policy guidelines given to the U.S. Ambassador in Laos.

The ambassador has responsibility for overseeing the clandestine military operations in Laos aimed at assisting the Royal Laotian government in its battle against the Pathet Lao Communists. The aid includes bombing and CIA financing and advising of Laotian troops.

Despite the lopsided margin of defeat, supporters of the resolution dominated the debate. They charged their colleagues with not wanting to know what was going on and ducking their constitutional responsibility of being informed before voting appropriations to support the activities in Laos.

Postal Receipts Show Increase

Originating pieces of mail at the Lincoln Post Office showed a 3% decrease, but postal receipts increased almost 15% when compared with figures for June, 1970, according to the latest post office statistics.

Last month originating mail totaled 10,508,746, compared with 10,833,007 for a similar period last year. For the year-to-date, 209,113,068 pieces of mail originated from the local post office, a 2.4% decline from last year's total of 214,313,475.

Postal receipts during June totaled $778,845, compared with $677,633 for June 1970. Receipts for the year-to-date total $11,124,853, compared with $10,263,507 for 1970.

Hinrichs Named Dean Of Services

Seward (UPI) — Dr. Vance Hinrichs was appointed dean of services administration at Concordia Teachers College July 1, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. W. Th. Janzow, president of the college.

Hinrichs joined the Concordia faculty in 1959 and has most recently been serving as director of planning and development. He is a 1953 Concordia alumnus.

WORKER SURVIVES CAVE-IN

John Kafka, 20, was buried in a sewer project cave-in in Kansas City, Kan., Wednesday, but quick help by fellow workers saved his life. Two of them were partially buried by a second cave-in when they went to his aid. They managed to scoop dirt away from Kafka's head; other workers pulled him out.

Department Of Health Gives $12,000 To Neonatal Center

The Southeast Nebraska Regional Neonatal Center at Lincoln's St. Elizabeth Community Health Center has been granted $12,000 from the Nebraska Department of Health for purchase of special equipment.

The money will be used for "improving and strengthening the Neonatal Center and expanding its services," according to the agreement signed by St. Elizabeth and State Health Department officials.

The equipment purchased with the health department grant will also be used "in a program of regional education for other hospitals in the training of personnel and the promotion of better perinatal health," the agreement states.

The Neonatal Intensive Care Unit, Nebraska's second specialized care center for "high risk" newborns, officially opened Oct. 1, 1970. Facilities at NICU are available to any newborn child in the area needing them.

According to St. Elizabeth executive director Jack E. Stiles, the grant will be used to purchase eight pieces of equipment for the center.

School Guards Shot To Death

Wilmington, N.C. (AP) — Two Pinkerton security men were found shot to death Wednesday in an integrated junior high school they were guarding.

Polcce Chief H. E. Williamson identified the victims as Erving L. Padrick, 68, a retired Wilmington fireman, and James Flowers, 29, of nearby Leland.

Both were shot with large caliber weapons, Williamson said, Padrick once in the back and Flowers once in the mouth.

Stock Market's Gain Trimmed

New York (AP) — The stock market surged ahead in active trading during most of the session Wednesday, then lost a substantial portion of its gain as volume closed.

Despite the late loss of strength, one Wall Street analyst said the market "gave a good account of itself technically."

He added that the rally that got underway in late trading Tuesday was due in part to optimism about the soon-to-be released second-quarter earnings reports, and hopes of progress in winding down the Vietnam war.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished with a gain of 3.58 at 895.88 after having been up more than 6 points around midsession.

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced 1.3 to 321.7, with industrials up 1.9, rails up .5 and utilities up .8. The New York Stock Exhcange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.20 to 55.40. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained .28 to 100.04.

After having held a margin of more than 2 to 1 in earlier trading, gainers finished with an edge of 835 to 526 over losers among 1,684 issues traded on the Big Board. New 1971 highs topped new lows by 79 to 34.

Volume rose to 14.52 million shares from 10.44 million Tuesday.

Institutionally activity picked up with big block trades —10,000 shares or more —totaling 115, compared with 63 Tuesday. The biggest blocks were 200,000 shares of Goodyear, 121,200 shares of American Brands, 101,000 shares of CNA Financial, and 100,200 shares of Purex.

Goodyear, up ⅛ at 32⅞ on total volume of 271,200 shares, led the Big Board's most active list. Ranking next were RCA, off ½ to 34½ on 184,600 shares; American Telephone, up ¼ to 45⅜ on 157,900 shares; and American Brands, off ¼ to 45⅜ on 152,000 shares.

The American Stock Exchange index rose .11 to 25.70. Among 1,124 issues traded, 505 advanced, and 352 fell. Volume of 3.85 million shares compared with 2.57 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mostly lower and governments advanced.

Soybean Futures Prices Advance

Chicago (AP) — A wave of buying-rooted in the possibility of a smaller soybeans crop and accompanied by short-covering — sent soybeans futures higher by 6 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

The gain was shortlived, however. Soybeans closed a little more than 3 cents higher. Soybean oil and meal also gained a few points.

The strength in soybeans, however, was instrumental in attracting buyers in the corn, wheat and oats pits and early gains of from around 1 cent to nearly 2 cents a bushel. These gains later were turned into losses under profit-taking.

At the close, soybeans were 3 to 3⅜ cents a bushel higher, July 3.31; wheat was ½ to 1½ cents lower, July 1.55; corn was ¼ to 1 cent lower, July 1.55; corn was ¼ to 1 cent lower, July 1.49½; and oats were ⅛ to ⅝ lower July 70¼ cents.

Stock Market's Gain Trimmed

New York (AP) — The stock market surged ahead in active trading during most of the session Wednesday, then lost a substantial portion of its gain as volume closed.

Despite the late loss of strength, one Wall Street analyst said the market "gave a good account of itself technically."

He added that the rally that got underway in late trading Tuesday was due in part to optimism about the soon-to-be released second-quarter earnings reports, and hopes of progress in winding down the Vietnam war.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished with a gain of 3.58 at 895.88 after having been up more than 6 points around midsession.

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced 1.3 to 321.7, with industrials up 1.9, rails up .5 and utilities up .8. The New York Stock Exhcange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.20 to 55.40. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained .28 to 100.04.

After having held a margin of more than 2 to 1 in earlier trading, gainers finished with an edge of 835 to 526 over losers among 1,684 issues traded on the Big Board. New 1971 highs topped new lows by 79 to 34.

Volume rose to 14.52 million shares from 10.44 million Tuesday.

The advance ranged through the rubber issues, mail order-retails, aircrafts, utilities, chemicals, airlines, electronics and drugs.

Institutionally activity picked up with big block trades —10,000 shares or more —totaling 115, compared with 63 Tuesday. The biggest blocks were 200,000 shares of Goodyear, 121,200 shares of American Brands, 101,000 shares of CNA Financial, and 100,200 shares of Purex.

Goodyear, up ⅛ at 32⅞ on total volume of 271,200 shares, led the Big Board's most active list. Ranking next were RCA, off ½ to 34½ on 184,600 shares; American Telephone, up ¼ to 45⅜ on 157,900 shares; and American Brands, off ¼ to 45⅜ on 152,000 shares.

The American Stock Exchange index rose .11 to 25.70. Among 1,124 issues traded, 505 advanced, and 352 fell. Volume of 3.85 million shares compared with 2.57 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mostly lower and governments advanced.

Soybean Futures Prices Advance

Chicago (AP) — A wave of buying-rooted in the possibility of a smaller soybeans crop and accompanied by short-covering — sent soybeans futures higher by 6 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

The gain was shortlived, however. Soybeans closed a little more than 3 cents higher. Soybean oil and meal also gained a few points.

The strength in soybeans, however, was instrumental in attracting buyers in the corn, wheat and oats pits and early gains of from around 1 cent to nearly 2 cents a bushel. These gains later were turned into losses under profit-taking.

At the close, soybeans were 3 to 3⅜ cents a bushel higher, July 3.31; wheat was ½ to 1½ cents lower, July 1.55; corn was ¼ to 1 cent lower, July 1.53; corn was ¼ to 1 cent lower, July 1.49½; and oats were ⅛ to ⅝ lower July 70⅛ cents.

Indianapolis Approves Strict Ice Cream Vending Truck Ordinance

Indianapolis, Ind. (AP) — Motorists approaching an ice cream vending truck selling its wares would have to stop and then proceed with caution under an ordinance passed by the Indianapolis city-county council Wednesday night.

The procedure would be similar to that in effect in most states for a school bus that has halted to discharge or take on children.

The trucks will have to be equipped with a fold-out sign, similar to those on school buses, proclaiming "Stop-Proceed With Caution." They also will sport red ights, front and rear, which would flash when the truck driver is stopped to sell ice cream.

The ordinance was passed after two children were killed and 13 injured in traffic accidents around ice cream trucks this summer. It also forbids the vendors to sell on certain main thoroughfares and within 1,000 feet of schools, and forbids sales between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Violators will be subject to a fine up to $500 and a jail sentence up to 180 days.

Indianapolis Approves Strict Ice Cream Vending Truck Ordinance

Indianapolis, Ind. (AP) — Motorists approaching an ice cream vending truck selling its wares would have to stop and then proceed with caution under an ordinance passed by the Indianapolis city-county council Wednesday night.

The procedure would be similar to that in effect in most states for a school bus that has halted to discharge or take on children.

The trucks will have to be equipped with a fold-out sign, similar to those on school buses, proclaiming "Stop-Proceed With Caution." They also will sport red ights, front and rear, which would flash when the truck driver is stopped to sell ice cream.

The ordinance was passed after two children were killed and 13 injured in traffic accidents around ice cream trucks this summer. It also forbids the vendors to sell on certain main thoroughfares and within 1,000 feet of schools, and forbids sales between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Violators will be subject to a fine up to $500 and a jail sentence up to 180 days.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
